LOWELL MAN CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT TO KILL

James F. Gallagher Fired Four
Shots at Lawrence Clothing
Dealer—Held in $10,000 Bail

James F. Gallagher, 22, of 5 Bradford street, Lawrence, formerly of Lowell, was arraigned in the Lawrence court this morning on the charge of attempt to murder Bryan
Weiner, 25, junior member of the firm
of Samuel Weiner & Co. Gallagher
pleaded not guilty and his bail was fixed at $10,000. Weiner is in a critical condition at the Lawrence General hospital. He was operated upon this morning and the doctors say his chances for recovery are not quite even.

The shooting followed an argument
over $5 paid down on a suit of clothes
returned to the Weiner Credit Clothing Co. Four shots are said to have been fired. One hit Weiner in the right
lung and another entered his left arm.
The other two went wild.

The Weiner store is situated at 530
Essex street, Lawrence, and the trouble
created a great deal of excitement,
the street being crowded at the time with operatives from the mills on their way home.

According to the police, Gallagher
purchased a suit of clothes on credit
from Weiner four weeks ago, paying
five dollars down and telling Weiner
that he was working at the Stevens
mill in North Andover. Later, it is said, Weiner learned that Gallagher was not working, and he demanded and got the suit back.

Late yesterday afternoon Weiner
was going over his books with his stenographer, Sarah C. Berger, when Gallagher walked into the store. He demanded the five dollars he had paid
on deposit, it is said, and a heated discussion ensued between him and Wein-
er. Finally, it is said, Gallagher asked Weiner to step to the door. When the latter did so, Gallagher, it is alleged,

drew a .38-calibre revolver and shouting, "No one is going to rob me, Weiner, you are going on a long journey,"
fired four shots.

Weiner grasped his breast, shouted,
"I'm shot," and staggered across the room, collapsing near his desk. Gallagher, it is alleged, fled for the stair-
way, but did not succeed in escaping.
The screams of Miss Berger, the stenographer, attracted Thomas McCarron, a passerby, who seized Gallagher and held him until the arrival of Patrolman Patrick Casey.

Weiner was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. At 5 o'clock he regained consciousness. The physicians say he is too weak to undergo an operation, and they will not probe for the bullet in his breast until morning. It is feared that the bullet penetrated his lung.

500 BODIES RECOVERED

Steamer Turned Bottom Up Pouring
Its Passengers Into River—Scream-
ing Men, Women and Children
Fought Desperately for Their Lives
—Firemen Cut Through Sides of
Vessel, and Found Bodies Piled On
One Another—Officers Arrested

CHICAGO, July 24.—Hundreds of
persons were drowned today when
the steamer Eastland, crowded with 2500 employees of the Western Electric company, capsized in the Chicago
river. Four hours after the accident
rescuers were still taking bodies from
the boat through holes chopped in
its hull, and estimates of the death
list ran from 1200 to 1500.

At 11 o'clock nearly 500 dead had been found.
Officers of Boat Arrested
The crowding of passengers to one side of the boat is supposed to have caused the tragedy, but the authorities, not satisfied with this explanation, ordered the arrest of officers of the boat, and Capt. Harry Pedersen
and Bell Fisher, first mate, were taken to police headquarters.

Panic Struck Passengers
Panic struck the passengers when
the boat began to turn over. Best accounts of witnesses said the steamer rolled slightly twice, then turned
further and that hundreds of screaming, struggling men, women and children slid across the sloping decks,
fought for room and clutched at com-pansions, deck chairs or any other object that came to hand.

Desperate Battle for Life
Women and children by the hundreds were caught below decks, and

the scratched faces, torn clothing and
bruised bodies of the dead bore evidence to the desperation with which they had fought for life.

The steamer turned over in less than five minutes. Members of the crew shouted warnings as the steamer first tilted and endeavored to drive
the passengers to the upper side of
the deck but the incline was already
too steep.

Poured Passengers Into River

Slowly, so as to agonize the speculators drawn to the scene by the shouts of warning and fear, the great
steel bulk turned bottom up, pouring
its passengers into the river.

Some 7000 tickets had been distributed for the excursion and five
steamers chartered by the company.
The Eastland was first to receive its
quota, and when its licensed capacity
was reached, federal inspectors ordered that no more be taken aboard.
The boat was docked on the south side
of the river and when the hundreds hurrying to the boat were turned back
from it they streamed across Clark
street bridge to the steamer Theodore Roosevelt which was to take the second load.

Screams Halted Rush

Screams of the Eastland victims
halted this rush, and the bridge was
jammed with people until police, fearful that the structure would collapse,

ordered it closed.

Mercantile concerns hurried motor
trucks to the scene laden with blankets
to warm the living or cover the dead.
Pulmonologists by the score were sent to
the dock. Physicians, police firemen, government life savers and nurses were summoned.

The steamer, when relieved of its passengers, floated on its side into
mid-stream and tugs, motorboats and
other river craft swarmed about it.
Firemen climbed on the hull, forced openings in the steel hull and through these searched the cabins for possible victims.

2500 Aboard

Robert H. McCurry, chief of the marine bureau of the customs office,
was present at the dock from 6:45
o'clock this morning with two of his steamerboat navigation inspectors. He declared that the exact number of persons on the boat was 2500; that the boat was not overloaded; and that
the passengers could not have been
more accurately counted if they had known there would be an accident.

Patrolmen Fred Fisher and John
S. Lescher, who were on duty at the Clark street bridge, when the accident occurred, led in the rescue work.
They obtained a rowboat and life
preservers, went to the steamer and
succeeded in saving 50 persons.

FATE OF WARSAW STILL HANGS IN THE BALANCE

The Teutonic Armies Continuing
Their Concerted Pressure on Polish Capital

LONDON, July 24, 12.50 p. m.—On the battle fronts of the Warsaw triangle what is generally considered the most important struggle of the war
since the battle of the Marne is still raging, without any indication of the ultimate outcome. The Russians are not yet prepared to abandon the salient continued occupancy of which against a successful enemy would threaten the very existence of their armies. Petrograd concedes that there is fighting six miles southwest of the fortress of Ivangorod, where the Germans smashed wire entanglements but were hurled back with heavy losses.

Both Vienna and Berlin claim, without giving definite details that Austro-German forces are now fighting virtually along the famous Lublin-Chelm railroad. Petrograd admits a German attack on a village located on this line
but claims that this assault was repulsed. It is conceded, however, that some of this regained ground was again lost.

The battle for this important Russian line of communication has now been under way ten days without pause and the Russians assert that their opponents are approaching the limit of their endurance.

The impression is growing that, unlike the Gallician campaign in which he merely sought to cover the retreat of his armies and keep them intact Grand Duke Nicholas is now fighting in the hope of saving Warsaw and defeating the Germans.

The western front is again comparatively quiet, with no signs of a general offensive by either side.
Italy claims further success along the Carso plateau, where the fighting has been fierce.

U. S. INSISTS ON RIGHTS WITHOUT COMPROMISE

American Note Now in Hands of the Kaiser—Warns Germany That U. S.
Will Not Tolerate Any Violation of Freedom of Seas From Any Quarter

WASHINGTON, July 24.—With the publication today of the note warning Germany that any repetition of acts by her submarine commanders in violation of American rights would be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly,"
the United States government awaited further developments.

The note does not necessarily call for a reply. It leaves the way open,

however, for an answer from Germany
disavowing the sinking of the Lusitania and offering reparation, substantiating assurances as to the future actions of her naval officers and even asking directly for mediation by the United States between the German and

British governments on the general
subject of warfare on the sea.

"Deliberately Unfriendly"

The use in the note of the phrase
"deliberately unfriendly" is viewed here as expressing the final word of the United States government regarding the subject.

DRIVES FOR RECORD

COX PILOTS MARGARET DRUEIN TO SEASON'S TROTTING MARK IN GRAND CIRCUIT

CLEVELAND, O., July 24.—Season records went by the board yesterday in the final program of the Grand Circuit racing at North Randall. The day's card was sensational, a fitting climax to the best week of racing the local track has ever known.

Driven by Pop Geers, Napoleon Direct, in the 2:03 pace, went the first heat in 2:02 1/2, and repeated in the second heat in 2:03 flat, being a season two-horse record, as well as the fastest two-horse record this year for a pace.

He had nothing on Margaret Druein. Piloted by Walter Cox, who thereby won his only victory of the week, the mare set a season's trotting record in the 2:05 trot by stepping the first mile in 2:05 1/4. Returning in the second heat, she went the circuit in 2:05 1/4, giving her the fastest second heat and the best race that have been recorded in 1915.

Lois Jennings took the honors in the 2:13 trot, being her second victory of the week. That record is unique in the history of the local track. Just about had little trouble in the Fast 3-year-old trotting sweepstakes. Cella Dillon captured the last two heats in the 2:21 trot, after Charles Valentine had sprung a surprise by sending Napoleon Direct to the front in the first heat.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION IN BIG STRIKE
AT STANDARD OIL PLANT IN BAYONNE, N. J.

1. THROWING LIGHTED BOMB ON TANK OF OIL → 2. STORMING WALL OF OIL PLANT →

Several persons met their death and hundreds were wounded in the big strike at the plant of the Standard Oil company, in Bayonne, N. J., when strikers and their sympathizers clashed with the armed guards of the company. Sheriff Kincaid of Hudson county had a great force of deputies to preserve order during the first few days before preparations were made to call out state troops. In the accompanying illustration is shown strikers and their sympathizers storming the concrete wall which surrounds the plant of the company. There also is shown a mob trying to set fire to one of the great oil tanks by hurling lighted bombs on them.

to the encampment, several meetings will be held at which the routine of camp life will be gone over in detail, and each member of the respective companies will be told what to expect and what is expected of him during the week's tactics.

It is the aim of Rev. D. A. Sullivan, O. M. L. the founder and spiritual director of the organization, that the boys be trained to understand the present war maneuvers in Europe, and as far as possible the tactics of the respective countries will be explained practically by maneuvers in the ranks of the campers. As the cadets are divided into several divisions, viz., cavalry, artillery, infantry, musicians and ambulance, it will be possible to have very realistic war games. There will be two main divisions for the more important skirmishes and the two main camps exhibited in the Fourth of July parade will probably be brought into use. To carry out the realistic attitude, an army doctor and several trained nurses will be on hand to look after the health of the boys.

The rules of West Point will obtain during the active encampment. The morning will be given over to military maneuvers and every afternoon a dress parade will be held. As in former years visitors will be cordially welcomed at the camp.

The cadets will wear their new uniforms to camp for which over $2000 has just been expended and the regular khaki uniforms will also be worn in the maneuvers. Police Officer "Matt" McCann will undoubtedly go along with the boys as physical director, and several military instructors will be in charge of the field work.

Following the announcement of the encampment at the meeting last night, talks were given to the boys by Rev. D. A. Sullivan and Major William Conroy, and when the meeting adjourned the cadets gave three rousing cheers for both.

The organization will pitch tents on the same camp ground at Milligan's grove, where the tactics were held last year, but the cadets will enjoy a week of camp life instead of four days which was the length of the encampment last August. The start for the camping grounds will be made on Monday morning, August 23 and the return trip on August 25, will be celebrated with a sham battle.

During the next few weeks previous

to the encampment, several meetings will be held at which the routine of camp life will be gone over in detail, and each member of the respective companies will be told what to expect and what is expected of him during the week's tactics.

The cadets will wear their new uniforms to camp for which over $2000 has just been expended and the regular khaki uniforms will also be worn in the maneuvers. Police Officer "Matt" McCann will undoubtedly go along with the boys as physical director, and several military instructors will be in charge of the field work.

Following the announcement of the encampment at the meeting last night, talks were given to the boys by Rev. D. A. Sullivan and Major William Conroy, and when the meeting adjourned the cadets gave three rousing cheers for both.

The organization will pitch tents on the same camp ground at Milligan's grove, where the tactics were held last year, but the cadets will enjoy a week of camp life instead of four days which was the length of the encampment last August. The start for the camping grounds will be made on Monday morning, August 23 and the return trip on August 25, will be celebrated with a sham battle.

During the next few weeks previous

to the encampment, several meetings will be held at which the routine of camp life will be gone over in detail, and each member of the respective companies will be told what to expect and what is expected of him during the week's tactics.

It is the aim of Rev. D. A. Sullivan, O. M. L. the founder and spiritual director of the organization, that the boys be trained to understand the present war maneuvers in Europe, and as far as possible the tactics of the respective countries will be explained practically by maneuvers in the ranks of the campers. As the cadets are divided into several divisions, viz., cavalry, artillery, infantry, musicians and ambulance, it will be possible to have very realistic war games. There will be two main divisions for the more important skirmishes and the two main camps exhibited in the Fourth of July parade will probably be brought into use. To carry out the realistic attitude, an army doctor and several trained nurses will be on hand to look after the health of the boys.

The rules of West Point will obtain during the active encampment. The morning will be given over to military maneuvers and every afternoon a dress parade will be held. As in former years visitors will be cordially welcomed at the camp.

FOR BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

In spite of the recommendations of the board of fire underwriters for such changes in our building laws as would provide greater security against fires no action has been taken by the municipal council.

The matter of eliminating so far as practicable the shingle roof and encouraging fire proof construction is one of great importance as upon the change depends very largely the standard of insurance rates to be fixed for property in Lowell.

Last year the national board of fire underwriters made a survey of this city in reference to fire prevention and made certain very important recommendations among which were changes in our fire alarm system and the installation of our fire department, improvements in electric wiring, re-inspection of old wiring and the correction of all defects; the installation of automatic sprinklers in all buildings which might be regarded as conflagration breeders.

But one of the most important recommendations had reference to building construction and was stated as follows:

That the building code be revised to conform to modern requirements for construction and fire prevention, especially as to limitations of heights and areas and protection to floor and exposed window openings.

That the fire limits be extended to include the entire area of the mill and woodworking districts and to properly safeguard the southern part of the business district; that the construction of buildings outside the fire limits be regulated as to prevent the development of dangerous conditions, and that incombustible roof coverings be required on all new or repaired buildings.

That change would necessitate the prohibition of the shingle roof in all new buildings and the substitution of fireproof roofing where worn out shingles are to be replaced.

This provision would greatly lessen the spread of fires and consequently reduce the fire hazards. The board of underwriters recently sent one of their engineers here to investigate how far the recommendations of a year ago had been carried out. He found that in the water department certain necessary changes had been made and that others were about to be made in the fire department, all calculated to lessen the fire risks and offer greater security for life and property. But the other recommendations had not been acted upon.

The city of Fall River has an ordinance under which the shingle roof is outlawed and which provides that if such a roof when worn out is to be replaced, it must be replaced with incombustible material.

The present would be a good time to carry out the recommendation of the underwriters in regard to necessary changes in the construction laws. The changes cannot all be made at once and they should not be confined to the fire and water departments.

ANOTHER CANCER CURE

So many cures for cancer have been discovered that it is a wonder anybody dies of the disease. The great trouble is that none of the cures has proved effective, not even the radio treatment.

The latest is the snow cure, consisting of snow frozen so hard that its temperature registers 250 degrees below zero. It is artificially manufactured and formed into pencils with which the skin affected is touched at intervals. The effect is said to restore the skin to a healthy condition. This remedy is being used in the Boston City hospital and is said to be effective in preventing the overgrowth of new tissue which this disease causes, and which will eventually result in death if not checked. There is no other disease on which medical science is exerting so much study to find an effective cure. It is quite probable that ultimately science will score a triumph in this case as in several others almost as important.

TO SAVE BECKER

It is now proposed to institute what is known as "John Doe proceedings" in the Becker case. This means the bringing of a criminal prosecution before a magistrate by submitting to him a sworn statement that a definite crime has been committed by a person whose name is not known to the complainant and who is, therefore, designated as John Doe.

In order to have the prosecution must point to some particular person as the accused and this would entail investigation which would require plenty of time. This is a procedure to defeat the application of the principle of the law in the Becker case. It would be a disservice to the courts of New York to tolerate such a procedure attempt to defeat the sentence of the court by a legal device that can be resorted only as the last resort of convicted criminals to save their skins.

THE PROGRESSIVES

Ex-Senator Burdick undertakes to tell the republicans in what conditions they can get the progressive vote. National prohibition, woman suffrage and a constitutional convention for the submission of the initiative and referendum are among the leading demands of the progressives in New York.

Gov. Walsh has not yet declared whether he will be a candidate for re-election. If he should so would show a more unflinching spirit than did

most of his predecessors in the face of such favorable prospects.

The Lowell militia ranks high as it has always done and if ever the country calls for troops, the men of Lowell as of yore will be among the foremost to respond for action.

The speech of Gov. Walsh at the Panama exposition was one of the best he ever delivered. The governor can make an eloquent speech when the occasion demands it.

The drop of $9.20 in the tax rate of Salisbury this year is glad news for the harassed cottage owners.

There will be no sea serpents this summer. They have all been harnessed to the German submarines.

LABOR TROUBLES AND WAR

If we have much trouble over the fact that our ammunition factories are running extensively to meet the demand for munitions by the British in the European war, what would be the conditions if the United States were engaged in war? Would we have numerous strikes? Would the strikers use the bomb and the torch to carry their point, or would they delight in embarrassing the government as the labor unions of England have done ever since that country entered the war? The control of the labor unions is one of the worst difficulties England has to contend with and judging from present conditions in this country the United States would be in a similar predicament if not a great deal worse, in case of war. During a war at least strikes and lockouts should be forbidden and all differences between employer and employee in regard to wages or hours of labor should be settled by arbitration.

THE SUBMARINE

The area of operation of a submarine boat has been gradually extended and now it is claimed that one has been built that can go across the globe and return without seeking a base of fuel supply. All that is needed now is to build one that can go around the world without replenishing its oil tanks.—Providence Tribune.

We are not to assume from the above that such a submarine is built on this side of the ocean. From all we can learn our submarines are of very little use. Some of them are incapable of returning to the surface if sunk to a depth of thirty fathoms. Moreover if they go any great distance from their base they are not likely to return. It is up to the naval invention board to give us submarines that will compete with those of Germany. The English article appears to be as helpless as our own.

AN EMPTY THREAT

The German Americans found to be working in American ammunition factories are to be subject to imprisonment for treason against Germany. How does Germany expect to apply that code to American citizens? The ammunition is not made for any particular belligerent but for any power that wants it. The manufacture of war material being a legitimate private business, it is subject to the general laws of trade same as the manufacture of cloth or of shoes.

WILLARD WALLOPED

Jesse Willard, the champion pugilist of the world, does not act much like a real champion. He betrayed the yellow streak in this city where, in a very tame exhibition bout, he was humped and as a result, school boy like, he challenged "any man in the crowd" to come up and stand before him. The challenge was not accepted here, but on a similar challenge at Framingham, Sandy Ferguson of Boston jumped into the ring and gave Willard all the boxing he wanted until both, in what seemed very much like a wrestling match, fell through the ropes.

When Miss Jane Addams declared that the soldiers of the various nations are made drunk before they shoot to kill or before they make a bayonet charge, she shows a woman's idea of a man's courage. Does she question the statements of eye witnesses, to whose comments rushing on the cannons mouth and apparently glorying in the opportunity to die for their respective countries? Miss Addams knows the true soldier's heroism which is more severely tried in the field in any other war that ever existed.

Upon the outcome of the European war will depend whether this and every other nation on earth will have to make military service compulsory, build new factories for munitions or the most powerful machine for the destruction of human life and keep always prepared for war of the future.

The campaign before us must be fought before next year it will be necessary to start something like a which a large bank of men can be employed in all clotted days. The summer of 1914 extension nearly closed a subscription.

Mr. Bryan is very bitter upon what he calls the subsidized newspaper. As Mr. Bryan views it, a paper subsidized with his money is subsidized. A great many other people detect the subsidized newspaper in the same way.

Gov. Walsh has not yet declared whether he will be a candidate for re-election. If he should so would show a more unflinching spirit than did

most of his predecessors in the face of such favorable prospects.

The Lowell militia ranks high as it has always done and if ever the country calls for troops, the men of Lowell as of yore will be among the foremost to respond for action.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

Frank Pinner of the Saco-Lowell shops has been elected secretary of the Warren club for the ensuing term.

John Longtin, the popular young boss of the Middlesex wool club, has accepted a position with the U. S. Cartridge Co.

The Loomfitters' union will meet Monday evening in Carpenters' hall, Rumels building to transact important business.

Decorated floats will be entered in the Labor day parade by several unions and labor leaders say that over 2000 men will participate in the pageant.

During the past few weeks the labor forward movement has taken a new lease of life. Trades & Labor hall in Middlesex where the majority of the union shortly have been moved far too small to accommodate the several organizations scheduled to meet there this week.

William H. Mahan, city inspector of wires and Joseph Connor of this city who is an instructor in the schools of Boston, were listed as speakers at the open meeting and smoke talk conducted by the Electrical Workers' union last night.

Another interesting report has its source in the more active recent demand for the common shares of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co. This development has revived the report that the print works of this corporation may be separated from the remainder of the company, and sold.

One of the leading shoe manufacturers of the city in business with the writer recently said the coming winter will be the busiest in the history of the shoe industry. The plant has orders for shoes to the value of $1,000,000 and is running steadily for several months and many more orders are expected.

President Frank Warnock of the Trades & Labor council of this city, the matter relative to the protection of child life along the banks of the canals and rivers of the city before the annual meeting of the municipal council again within a short time.

A leading textile publication says that among the most interesting reports concerning local cotton mills is the persistent rumor that the Appleton Co. may shortly have to keep the plant with a considerable stock dividend. As high as 200 has been bid for the shares of this corporation with the last week being the last public sale of this stock was around 185. The present interest of buyers in these shares is color to the report that the corporation will shortly increase its capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000 as rumored, and turn the new issues over to the shareholders as a stock dividend.

Machinists' Union

Machinists' union, local 135, met last evening at 22 Middle street and voted to participate in the parade on Labor day. Two new members were received and routine business was transacted.

Saco-Lowell Shops

The Saco-Lowell shops will close down on August 1 for one week for the annual stocktaking period. The closing will affect about 900 hands. For the past two months the local plant has been working on a full time schedule in its efforts for the next time in several months.

Blacksmiths' Union, Local 31

Blacksmiths' union, local 31, held its regular meeting last night in the union quarters in Middle street. But only business of minor importance was transacted. The reports read showed the organization to be in good financial standing.

Carpenters' Union, Local 1610

At the meeting conducted by Carpenters' union, local 1610, Thursday evening the following officers were installed for the ensuing term: President, John D. Proulx; president, Thomas J. Lincoff; vice-president, John Shaw; recording secretary, William H. Handley; treasurer, J. Paulin; warden, J. Paulin; Oliver Demerage and B. B. Golden trustees.

Trades & Labor

The Allied Printing Trades council held an interesting meeting last night and made preliminary arrangements for the arrival soon to be held by that organization. Reports from various committees were read and approved and a number of communists were invited to attend the secretary President James A. Flynn presided over the chair and the sub-committee on printing.

A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting was held by the Woolen Spinners' union last night in Cotton Spinners' hall, Middle street, at which a list of spellers was adopted. President Kennedy called the meeting to order. Twelve new candidates were initiated, seven applications for membership were received, and two new names were proposed. The organization voted unanimously to turn out in the Labor day parade, and committee were appointed to make the necessary arrangements. Power was given the president to appoint an aide to chief marshal of the parade, who was one of the speakers at the meeting. Organizer Daniel E. Whelan of the Boot & Shoe Workers' union gave a very interesting talk on unionism.

Electric Workers' Open Meeting

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local 335, held an open meeting and smoke talk last evening in the Middlesex wool club, with about 50 members in attendance. Joseph Connors of this city, who was instrumental in having the state law passed after September 1, persons, firms and corporations desiring to install wires or apparatus for electric light, heat or power pur- suing the provisions of the new act, at present time it is possible for individual workmen to accept contracts at a more favorable rate than the corporation, a condition which is most unfair by many in the trade. The meeting last night was presided over by President Lester Hall, who introduced the speaker, Frank Warnock of the Trades & Labor council and several prominent labor men as the speakers. Following the smoke talk, refreshments were passed and a very enjoyable musical program was carried out.

Milady's Boudoir

The Neglected Toe Nails

In the bathing season, especially now that women appear on the beach more or less barefooted, the care of the toe nails is just as important as the care of the hair. Milady's Boudoir is so much the more careful for the care of the toe nails is concerned, and the nail itself and the skin around it, accorded almost barbarous ill usage.

To wish for shining, well shaped finger nails is very natural on the part of the damsel who wishes to appear to the best advantage in the time she should extend this care to the nails of her feet, even if they are never seen. For after all the right care of the feet is the right care of the body, is done because it is right, and not merely for the sake of appearance. Therefore, the toe nails must be kept in the best condition. If they are not, they should not be often cut, but by interposing nails, nails loosened from the matrix, and nails that are bruised and black.

BUILDING AND REALTY

MANY PERMITS ISSUED AT LANDS AND BUILDINGS DEPT.—BUILDING OUTLOOK GOOD

Indications point to increased activity in the building line and architects and builders anticipate a busy season. The permits taken out at city hall during the present week were quite numerous but did not represent a great amount of money in the way of estimated costs as the majority of them were for additions and alterations.

The Cherry and Webb company, lessees of the building at 12 and 13 John street, in which their store is located have planned to make extensive alterations. The basement is to be deepened several feet and the interior to be finished up. The separating walls in the basement will be removed, thus making the basement one large room instead of two smaller ones. In the forward part of the store a large circular stair will be put in, extending from the first story to the basement. Refinishing and repairs will be made around the interior of the store generally, adding greatly to the appearance and attractiveness of the store. The light areas to the basement will also be enlarged. The estimated cost of these alterations is $5000.

Margaret E. Grand, 1 W. 11th street was issued a permit to raise the roof of her house at 3 W. 11th st. 4 feet, thus making the rooms square. She will also change this cottage house into a two tenement building of 5 rooms, pantry and bath each.

INTELLIGENCE IN USING WOOD

Of all the materials employed by the builder, wood is used with the least judgment.

For some unknown reason the public has labored under the delusion that all wood is the same. Consequently when building or improving work is undertaken lumber is ordered by quantity and dimension. Little, if any, attention is given to the question of whether or not the lumber furnished is suitable.

No other country in the world has produced so many valuable woods as North America. It should follow that the people of America know all about wood values and uses. In no other country, however, is so little attention paid to the selection of woods for particular uses.

The carter settlers made their selections and used timber wastefully. The only price they paid was labor. Their reckless use made serious inroads on the supply of certain classes of timber. To make up the deficit in the supply other woods now are being used. It is not so much a question of their being of quality inferior to that of the wood first employed as it is a question of being structurally different.

Those about to build should get away from the national carelessness in using the valuable and varied products of our forests. They should "select" specific kinds of wood for the particular purposes for which they are adapted. They should cease to "order" sizes. This change will place them on a par with the wood users of other countries where the American product is highly prized and is used intelligently.

There is no necessity for you just to "happen" to get the right kind of wood for the purpose for which you desire to use it. You can profit by the use of wood and derive satisfaction from it if you will give this subject a little thought at the right time and that is before the work is started.

One great drawback to the profitable use of wood has been the lack of understanding of the merits and values of particular woods for certain uses. Wood is used carelessly and without thought for its possibilities.

In connection with the purchase of no other kind of material will the exercise of knowledge and judgment yield so great returns. If individual woods were better known their use would be more satisfactory.

If you elect, you can build a home without using a piece of lumber. Those who know the material best, however, believe that by using wood judiciously and intelligently you can build at less cost and secure a home that in every way is more comfortable and satisfactory.

STOLE BUILDING BENT PROPERTY SOLD

Story of Lawrence St. Property Wanted for Public Playground

Here is a case in which a house was stolen from its foundation on Lawrence street and now the people in the vicinity want the land turned to a public playground or connected by a rustic bridge with the Boston & Maine land on the other side of the Concord river.

Mr. Wm. J. G. Myers, a well known newspaperman formerly of this city, but now of New Haven, Conn., was in this city a few days ago and visited his property in Lawrence street and a little above the Berque laundry and on the same side. Mr. Myers tells an amusing story about the title of property. He bought it some 25 years ago at a tax sale conducted by the city treasurer paying only a little over the amount of taxes due upon the property. Mr. Myers expected that the owners would soon come around to pay the taxes and other expenses and have the property restored to the legal way. He could, however, that there were no claimants. Then he had the title looked up and there seemed to be some uncertainty as to the actual ownership. It belonged apparently to A. C. Wheelock but whether he abandoned it intentionally on account of some law in the title is not known. At the time he made no claim to the property nor would he assist in any way in clearing the title.

There was nothing left for Mr. Myers to do but to let the property until a claimant appeared or until he secured a clear title by possession. There was a building upon the land that had been used as a blacksmith shop and valued at something like $500. It became vacant after a time and as nobody seemed to want it, Mr. Myers had the doors and windows boarded up. After some years, however, some of the boards were torn off so that boys could enter the building and do as they pleased inside. Some three years ago not only the windows but the doors disappeared and eventually people in the vicinity felt upon the old building and tore it down for kindling wood clearing away the whole structure in a night. The land is bare now as if there never was any building on it at all. It is assessed for $1050.

Mr. Myers has been paying taxes on it for over 22 years and according to the statutes he has now an absolutely clear title by right of possession for that period. He has paid in taxes to the city for this piece of property over $500 and he had to meet other expenses such as paying for shoveling the snow from the sidewalk in front of the premises together with some repairs and carpenter work done after he took possession of the building.

Wanted As A Playground

There seems to be some sentiment in that district in favor of securing land for a public playground which is very much needed by the children of the locality. Indeed it has been used as a playground for so many years that it seems to be set apart for that purpose without let or hindrance. It offers a splendid opportunity for the city to throw a rustic bridge across the Concord at this point where there is an island in the middle of the stream while on the opposite side of the river is vacant land belonging to the Boston & Maine railroad which the company might allow to be used temporarily as a public park. Mr. Myers would sell his land for what it cost him and the only other expense would be that of building the rustic bridge which would be comparatively slight owing to the fact that the pier allowing for one span on either side. The locality needs an outlet of this kind and the view of the river at this point is quite picturesque.

ing Germany's submarine warfare. The United States does not abate in any respect but rather more strongly insists upon the demands made in previous notes that Germany acquiesce in its views that the rules of international law and humanity be obeyed to her naval warfare.

Demands Lusitania Reparation

The United States government cannot believe, the note says, that "the imperial government will longer refrain from dissolving the wanton acts of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania" and making reparation for the lives of Americans lost in that disaster. It announces that the government will continue to contend for the freedom of the seas "from whatever quarter violated without compromise and at any cost."

Invites Cooperation

The note also invites the practical co-operation of the German government in an effort to bring about the freedom of the seas; declares that the American government cannot discuss actions of Great Britain and that it regards as irrelevant in the present negotiations the conduct of other belligerents, points out that recent events have clearly indicated that it is "possible and practicable" to conduct submarine operations in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare and rejects Germany's proposal "that certain vessels be designated and agreed upon which shall be free on the seas now illegally prescribed."

The note is now in the hands of the German government and no reply is expected for several weeks. President Wilson and Secretary Lansing had left Washington today. The full text of the American note will be found on the last page.

"UNGROUND ANXIETIES"

BERLIN, via London, July 21, 10.55 a. m.—The American note was not published in this morning's Berlin papers, but probably will appear in the afternoon editions.

Count Ernest von Rautenlow, in an article in the Tages-Zeitung, headed "Ungrounded Anxieties," declares that, no matter what the note contains, the submarine campaign will not be restricted. So far as the German empire is concerned, he says, there can be no further question of its attitude. Germany's stand has been taken, Count von Rautenlow asserts, and it will be maintained.

The Lokal Anzeiger says the contents of the American note do not preclude the possibility of further negotiations between Washington and Berlin.

MOTH PEST IDENTIFIED

Thousands of Forest Tent Caterpillars Accompanied Brown-tails to Lowell

The small brown moths that accompanied the brown-tails on their "wholesale visit" to Lowell Wednesday evening were taken to be the male of the gypsy moth but it was a case of mistaken identity. Even Superintendent John G. Gordon of the moth department was mistaken in the little brown fellows which were afterwards discovered to be none other than the woodland brother of an old enemy, the moth of the tent caterpillar and bears the common name of the forest tent caterpillar.

Unlike the brown-tail which hatches in the fall and hibernates all winter, the forest tent caterpillar comes into being in the late spring.

The forest tent caterpillar has been in New England for years and each year money prizes have been given the school children who will collect the eggs which may be found fastened securely around the twigs of the wild cherry or the domestic apple and pear trees and other trees as well, but these most commonly.

From these eggs hatch the occupants of the big white nests so common to roadside bush and wild apple tree. They feed upon the leaves after they have developed but the menace from this source is so insignificant compared to that of the brown-tail which comes to life on the first warm day of spring and feeds on the buds and leaves as they begin to unfold that they have been disregarded by many, although the spraying of the fruit trees to keep them down has continued.

Lured by City's Lights

Superintendent Gordon supposes that like the gypsy and brown-tail the forest tent caterpillar moth has followed the electric wires from his country birthplace into the city where he has become dazzled by the lights along the white way and like many human beings has remained to his sorrow. Strangely enough, both the brown-tails and the forest tent caterpillar moths failed to show up in any great numbers in the city.

Mr. Morse Says Swain's Report on Bridge Plans Has Arrived, City Engineer Says "No"

It was stated at city hall this morning that Prof. George F. Swain's report concerning the plans of the proposed Pawtucket bridge has been received and that the plans are "all right," which was taken to mean that they had been approved.

City Engineer Kearney, who is alleged to have received Prof. Swain's report when seen by a Sun reporter this morning, denied any knowledge of the report. Commissioner Morse informed the newspaper men that the report was received Thursday by Engineer Kearney, and although he (Mr. Morse) did not see the report, he understood, he said, that it was all right. The mayor was asked to find out if the said report had been received and his reply was that he was too busy to look into the matter.

Prof. George F. Swain is the expert who was hired by the city to examine the plans of the proposed bridge, which were drawn by Walter B. Denman of the Lucien Engineering company of Worcester, with instructions to report at his earliest convenience to the city engineer, and although it was positively stated that the report reached him on Thursday, City Engineer Kearney denied all knowledge of it.

Attended Conference

City Solicitor J. Hennessy and his assistant, Capt. McDonald went to East Cambridge this morning to confer with the county commissioners in reference to the proposed changes to the Chelmsford street bridge. These changes have been ordered by the public service commission, and it is understood that the cost is to be defrayed by the county commission, the city of Lowell and the Boston & Maine railroad.

Boulevard Extension

The new boulevard from Methuen to Glenn Forest will be opened for traffic on August 10. An effort will be made to complete the section in front of the city hall by the end of this year, and it is expected that in case anything is done at the Lowell end of the highway from Read street following the river bank to the city line, First street will be widened from Bridge to Read streets, and it is also expected the Bay State Street Railway company will put in double tracks.

Tanner Street Sewer

The employees of the sewer department are still at work on the rebuilding of the Tanner street sewer which caved in some time ago under the weight of a railroad trestle. Metallic

TEXT OF AMERICAN REPLY TO LAST GERMAN NOTE

The Secretary of State to Ambassador Gerard, Department of State, Washington, July 21, 1915.

You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the minister of foreign affairs:

"The note of the imperial German government dated the 5th of July, 1915, has received the careful consideration of the government of the United States, and it regrets to be obliged to say that it has found it very unsatisfactory, because it fails to meet the real differences between the two governments and indicates a way in which the accepted principles of law and humanity may be applied in the grave matter in controversy, but proposes, on the contrary, arrangements for a partial suspension of those principles which virtually set them aside.

"The government of the United States notes with satisfaction that the imperial German government recognizes without reservation the validity of the principles insisted on by the several communications which this government has addressed to the imperial German government with regard to its announcement of a war zone and the use of submarines against merchantmen on the high seas—the principle that the high seas are free, that the character and cargo of a merchantman must first be ascertained before she can lawfully be seized or destroyed, and that the lives of non-combatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel resists or seeks to escape after being summoned to submit to examination; for a belligerent act of retaliation is per se an act beyond the law, and the defence of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal.

"The government of the United States is, however, keenly disappointed to find that the imperial German government regards itself as in large degree exempt from the obligation to observe these principles, even where neutral vessels are concerned, by what it believes the policy and practice of the government of Great Britain to be in the present war with regard to neutral commerce.

"The imperial German government will readily understand that the government of the United States cannot discuss the policy of the government of Great Britain with regard to neutral trade except with that government itself, and that it must regard the conduct of other belligerent governments as irrelevant to any discussion with the imperial German government of what this government regards as grave and unjustifiable violation of the rights of American citizens by German naval commanders.

"Illegal and inhuman acts, however justifiable they may be thought to be against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights, particularly when they violate the right to life itself.

"If a belligerent cannot retaliate against an enemy without injuring the lives of neutrals, as well as their property, humanity as well as justice and a due regard for the dignity of neutral powers, should dictate that the practice be discontinued. If persisted in, it would in such circumstances constitute an unpardonable offence against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected. The government of the United States is not unmindful of the extraordinary conditions created by this war or of the radical alterations of circumstance and mentalities of naval warfare which the nations of the world cannot have had in view when the existing rules of international law were formulated, and it is ready to make every reasonable allowance for these novel and unexpected aspects of war at sea; but it cannot consent to abate any essential or fundamental right of its people because of a mere alteration of circumstances. The rights of neutrals in time of war are based upon principle, not upon expediency, and the principles are immutable. It is the duty and obligation of belligerents to find a way to adapt the new conditions to them.

"The events of the past two months have clearly indicated that it is possible and practicable to conduct such submarine operations as have characterized the activity of the imperial German navy within the so-called war zone in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare. The whole world has looked with interest and increasing satisfaction at the demonstration of that possibility by German naval commanders. It is manifestly possible, therefore, to lift the whole practice of submarine attack above the criticism which it has aroused, and remove the chief causes of offence.

"In view of the admission of illegality made by the imperial government when it pleaded the right of retaliation in defence of its policy, and in view of the manifest possibility of conforming to the established rules of naval warfare, the government of the United States cannot believe that the imperial government will longer refrain from disavowing the wanton act of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania or from offering reparation for the American lives lost, so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of human life by an illegal act.

"The government of the United States, while not indifferent to the friendly spirit in which it is made, cannot accept the suggestion of the imperial German government that certain vessels be designated and agreed upon which shall be free on the seas now illegally proscribed. The very agreement would by implication subject other vessels to illegal attack and would be a curtailment and therefore an abandonment of the principle for which this government contends, and which in times of calmer counsels every nation would concede as of course.

"The government of the United States and the imperial German government are contending for the same great object, have long stood together in urging the very principles upon which the government of the United States now so solemnly insists. They are both contending for the freedom of the seas.

"The government of the United States will continue to contend for that freedom, from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost. It invites the practical co-operation of the imperial German government at this time when co-operation may accomplish most and this great common object be most strikingly and effectively achieved.

"The imperial German government expresses the hope that this object may be in some measure accomplished even before the present war ends. It can be. The government of the United States not only feels obliged to insist upon it, but who can soever violated or ignored, in the protection of its own citizens, but is also deeply interested in seeking it to be made practicable between the belligerents themselves and holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way.

"In the meantime the very value which the government sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and government of the United States and the people and government of the German nation impels it to press very solemnly upon the imperial German government the necessity for a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the imperial government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly."

SAD STORY TOLD IN COURT

Girl Who Slept in Woods in Wretched Condition When Found by the Police

Tired, hungry, dirty and bedraggled, a young woman who gave her name as Alice Courtise was arrested early this morning coming out of Indian orchard, where she is supposed to have slept all night exposed to the dampness and cold. She was taken to the police station charged with the charge of being there during the past few weeks.

The girl, who appeared to be about 22 years of age, told Judge Enright this forenoon that she has a home in Maine which she left a few weeks ago and made her way to Boston, where she stopped until last week. She attempted to evade answering questions relative to her stopping place in this city, but when pressed asserted that she had slept in a room which she could not now locate and had also spent an evening in a shed with her doors not windows. Her story had secured enough food she would not state but admitted that she had been drinking heavily during her stay in Lowell and didn't eat very much.

When arrested on First street, the woman had no shoes on and her stockings contained many holes. She wore a soiled skirt and an old red sweater over a white waist. His Honor advised the girl to spend a few days in the Lowell jail but she did not care to do this and so the case was continued until Tuesday. In the meantime an attempt will be made to find relatives of the defendant.

Broke His Agreement

Peculiar evidence was submitted in the case of Emile Lergant, charged with failing to properly support his wife. The husband works steadily and earns between $11 and $12 a week while the wife also is employed in a local mill for about $7 a week. It seems that Emile and his wife recently entered into an agreement whereby each was to contribute a certain sum regularly toward the household expenses and put the rest in the bank. At the present time both have money in the bank in their own names. The defendant failed to abide by his agreement about two weeks ago, however, and has not contributed his usual pay, since. Judge Enright informed the man that it was necessary for him to support his wife and continued the case for two weeks for further developments. Daniel J. Donahue for the government and A. O. Hamel for the defendant.

Assault and Battery

Aristides Bikanadas was adjudged guilty of assault and battery upon Ellen E. Simigli and sentenced to two months in jail. He appealed and was held in $300 surety for the superior court. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the complainant.

Both parties are operatives in the Boot mill. It is claimed that Bikanadas has been in the habit of throwing hobnails at the complainant as he passed on machines on an elevator. He objected to this treatment and requested him to stop but when he persisted she went to the overseer and reported him. When Bikanadas learned that the girl had made a complaint about his conduct it is claimed he struck her four times, darkening both her lamps.

Hyman Snyder was called to answer to a complaint charging him with keeping an unlicensed dog. Through his attorney, Bennett Silverblatt, he pleaded guilty and the case was placed on file on payment of costs.

Three men and three women were present for drunkenness and disposed of in short order. Prior to the opening of court, 10 first offenders for drunkenness were released.

ALL ABOARD FOR BEACH

Many Excursions From Lowell Today — Shops Deserted for the Seashore

Neither the European war, the big labor disputes all over the country or the still smouldering Mexican situation, had any depressing effect on the hundreds of Lowell people who gave up today for the pleasures of an outing, and those who had to stay at home and work envied the excursionists who left Merrimack square early this morning for the seashore or country. The day was ideal and the outings were well attended.

W. J. Barry Shoe Co.

Employees of the W. J. Barry Shoe Co., to the number of 250 boarded three jumbo electric cars at Merrimack square shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, enroute for Revere beach where their annual outing was held. On the way to the resort all the popular songs of the day were sung, and the merry-makers had a great time. Upon arriving at the beach a sumptuous shore dinner was served, after which the attractions along the beach were viewed. During the afternoon bathing was enjoyed, and a long list of sports was run off for which valuable prizes were awarded the winners. President Griffin, Treasurer W. J. Barry and Supt. White accompanied the party. The return home will be made this evening.

L. H. Spaulding Shoe Co.

One special car loaded with employees of the L. H. Spaulding Shoe Co., followed the Barry excursionists to Revere, and they also had the time of their lives on the trip. A shore dinner, bathing, sports and excursions to the beach attractions included the day's enjoyment. The party was in charge of a special committee headed by Gilbert Sabie.

C. F. Hatch Co.

About 15 employees of the C. F. Hatch Co., in one special car headed by Chairman Lester and Conductor Ryan, enjoyed a ride to Revere today, the start for the resort being made shortly after 8:30 o'clock this morning. After enjoying a sumptuous dinner, a dip in the briny sea indulged in, and needlers to state the day was spent enjoyably by every member of the party. The excursionists will return at a late hour this evening.

Lawrence Flashing Dept.

Fully 160 employees of the Flashing department of the Lawrence Manufacturing Co., headed by Robert Tyron, enjoyed their annual excursion to Revere today. One special car loaded with the pleasure seekers left the square promptly at 8:15 o'clock this morning, and the trip to the beach proved full of enjoyment. A dinner was served at one of the dining rooms at the resort, after which bathing was enjoyed by all. The return trip is scheduled to be made at 8:45 o'clock this evening.

Tewksbury Holy Name Society

The members of the Tewksbury Holy Name society boarded a special car at Chandler street, Tewksbury, at 8 o'clock this morning and a run was made to Revere where the annual outing was held. The program for the day included a dinner, bathing, ball games, field events, and all the attractions along the boulevard were visited, affording plenty of enjoyment for all concerned. The party was in charge of a committee headed by Edward Walsh of Wameet.

Other Outings

On special car comfortably filled with the members of the Swedish M. E. church left Merrimack square at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, enroute to Mountain Rock the scene of the annual church outing. Mr. Carl Phil was in charge of the party.

The annual outing of the Salvation Army was held at North Chelmsford today, the members going to the scene of the day's pleasure in one special car at 10 o'clock this morning. James Sawyer had charge of the arrangements for the affair.

The members of the Baptist church Sunday school of Billerica held their annual outing today at Canobie lake. The trip was made in one car which left North Billerica at 12:10 p. m. There were over 150 members in the party.

ANOTHER BREAK

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Store Broken Into Last Evening

The Atlantic & Pacific tea store at 136 Merrimack street was broken into late last night or early this morning and $10 in silver and many articles of merchandise were taken. The thief made his getaway by the back window leading into Poland's alley from the cashier's office. Entrance to the store was made by the same window. The break was discovered by the manager of the store, Clement Barstow, at 7 o'clock this morning shortly after he had opened the store for business.

Over $200, which was secreted in the till where the silver was deposited was not discovered by the thief and remained untouched, though the thief didn't overlook five pennies, which lay on a tray on the cashier's desk.

After discovering the break Mr. Barstow immediately communicated with the police and Sergeant Fitzoux was sent to investigate. The police believe the break was the work of juveniles.

This is the fourth break reported on Merrimack street during the past few weeks. In June the Boston Confectionery store was entered and a sum of money taken. Last week's break was made at the Ring Piano store and Wood's jewelry store.

HUNDREDS DROWNED

Continued

The steamer had been chartered for the day by the Western Electric Co. employees, who had planned an excursion to Michigan City, Ind.

Passengers were crowded on the ship shortly before 8 o'clock, the hour it was to leave, when the boat slowly listed toward the middle of the river.

2500 On Steamer

It is said that there were 2500 people on the steamer.

When the boat started to tip the officers shouted warnings but it was too late. The heavily loaded steamer continued to roll until the hawsevers which held it to the dock snapped. A moment later, amid the screams of passengers, the steamer turned over on its side and floated out into the middle of the river. Apparently scores of women and children in the cabin were drowned without being given a chance to escape.

Scores Picked Up By Boats

Hundreds of other passengers were able to climb on the side of the boat which is above water and were later taken off by rescuers. Life preservers were cast into the river from the steamship Theodore Roosevelt, which was docked across the river and scores of the Eastland's passengers clung to them until picked up by boats.

Bodies of Six Victims

City fire boats, police launches and life boats from nearby steamers in the river rushed to the rescue. A hole was cut through the side of the lower deck by life savers and the bodies of six victims, five of whom were women, were soon taken out.

L. D. Gador, employed on the steamer, was the first eye witness to tell a detailed story of the accident.

Story of Eye Witness

"It was about 7:40 o'clock and the boat was lying at the dock near Clark street bridge loading with passengers," said Gador. "We were to leave in twenty minutes, and the upper deck and cabins were crowded with passengers. There were hundreds of men, women and children. I estimate that there were between two and three thousand on the boat at the time of the accident. I was standing on the lower deck near the gangplank watching the people come aboard. Suddenly I noticed the boat list slightly at first and then seemed to stop. Then it started to roll again. I became alarmed and shouted to the crowd to keep still. Apparently a majority of the passengers were on one side of the boat and this had overweighted it and caused it to list. Suddenly the hawsevers which held the boat to the dock snapped and the passengers pulled the gangplank in and refused to allow any more on the boat.

Everybody Panic Stricken

"At this time everybody was panic stricken. I attempted to reach an upper deck but could not because of the crowd and excitement and ran back to the port side where the gangway had been. The boat then slowly drifted away from the dock, rolling as it slipped into mid-stream and a moment later it had turned over on its side. I climbed over on the side of the boat and stayed there until I was taken off by life savers. Many of the passengers leaped into the water as the boat went over. Scores of others were caught in the cabins and drowned.

"When the small boats began coming out to us I worked with other survivors in taking passengers out of the water and cutting holes in the cabins to remove bodies."

Mother and Three Children Lost

Mrs. Paulina Vantak, the mother of three children, was among the drowned. Her children were believed to have been lost. Henry Vantak, the woman's husband, was pulled out of the water.

"I could not believe the boat was turning over," Vantak said. "About a dozen of the 150 persons on the upper decks jumped. The rest were thrown into the river. I did not see my wife or children after the boat turned. They were carried into the river with the crowd. Someone grabbed me around the neck and kept pulling me. It was a woman but I could not save her."

Policeman Saved Fifty

Policeman Henry H. Sessler, one of the first to go to the rescue, gave a vivid description of the accident.

"I saw scores of men and women, many of them holding children, plunged into the water. I jumped into a row-boat and pulled out to the drowning. I think I got about 50 ashore.

"The fire boats and tugs hurried to the scene and picked up more than a hundred people.

"7000 Tickets for Picnic

"We grabbed those nearest us first. At one time I had four women in the boat with me. Others I aided by dragging them from the water onto the docks."

The Eastland was filled to capacity and hundreds turned to other boats, according to S. G. Hall, one of the Western Electric picketers. He estimated that seven thousand tickets had been distributed to the employees and that more than 2500 were crowded on the Eastland.

"I went to the dock," said Mr. Hall, "and was told to go to the other boats as the Eastland was already too crowded. There were 15 or 20 people behind me and more coming fast."

"It was told that 700 tickets had been distributed among the company's employees and that there were to be six boat loads. The only boats that I heard were to be used, however, were the Eastland and the Theodore Roosevelt.

"I had scarcely gone ten feet toward the Roosevelt when the Eastland began to list. Hundreds ran to the rail and many climbed over its Side as it turned over. All were thrown into the water."

Captain Pedersen Talks

Capt. Harry Pedersen, of Benton Harbor, Mich., who was commander of the boat, said:

"I was on the bridge and was about ready to pull out when I noticed the boat began to list. I shouted orders to open the gangway of the boat nearest the dock and give the people a chance to get out. The boat continued to roll and shortly afterward the hawsevers broke and the steamer turned over on its side. It all happened in two minutes. The cause is a mystery to me."

Rescued Three Women

Chief Steward Albert Wycoff said:

"I was in the lunch room on the main deck when I noticed the boat beginning to list. A scene of wild excitement followed. I started for the people to save themselves. A moment later I jumped into the water and managed to rescue three women."

Lysle Goyette, 1532 South Avera avenue, Chicago, said:

"My wife and I had just entered the boat and were in the crowd on the main deck near the gangway. The people followed. I started for the people to save themselves. A moment later I jumped into the water and managed to rescue three women."

Saw Dozens Drown

Mrs. Emmet O'Donnell of Berwyn, Ill., said:

"The steamer was getting ready to leave and was crowded with excursionists. The officers of the boat pushed the crowds back which were around the gangplank in order to pull it in. I think this is what caused the boat to list to one side. It never stopped when it started to roll and a few moments later it was out in the middle of the river on its side. I saw dozens of people drown around me. By a great effort I was able to climb on the upper side of the boat and managed to hold on until taken off by rescuers."

W. K. Greenbaum, manager of the Indiana Transportation Co. who was in charge of the excursion, said:

"We had chartered five steamers for the excursion of the Western Electric company's employees to Michigan City, Ind., today. We had the steamer Eastland, Peloskey, Theodore Roosevelt, Racine and Maywood.

Inspectors at Dock

"The Eastland was the first boat to load, and the docks were crowded with passengers who were to be taken on the other boats nearby. One United States steamboat inspector and two assistants watched the Eastland load. They stood at the gangplank and counted the passengers as they went aboard. Their report shows that there were 2500 passengers on the Eastland. Its full capacity is 2000. The United States steamboat regulations have no idea how the accident occurred."

The steamer Eastland was built in 1903 and was owned by the Eastland Navigation Co. of Cleveland, O. It was 265 feet long, 35 feet wide and had a draft of 23 feet with a net tonnage of 1915. It was brought to Chicago in 1915. It was used in the excursion business to South Haven, Mich., for several years. Later it was taken to Cleveland, O., and placed in the excursion service there. This spring the boat was remodeled. It was then brought to Chicago and put on the run to St. Joseph, Mich. It has a steel hull and a speed of 21 miles an hour.

Near-Tragedy 8 Years Ago

The Eastland nearly met with an accident eight years ago similar to that of today. She was then in commission between Chicago and South Haven, Mich. The boat, crowded with passengers, listed badly in the South Haven harbor when the water ballast was being taken aboard. Officers of the ship drove the passengers to the other side of the vessel, and by that means probably averted a disaster.

Six government inspectors were working on the docks when the Eastland turned over. They were in charge of Inspector R. H. McCurry.

"Two inspectors were assigned to the Eastland," McCurry said. "To see that the boat was not overcrowded. The ship had taken on all that she could hold and the two inspectors had turned many others away. She was ready to sail when the accident occurred."

Grand jury investigation was foreclosed when Walter K. Greenbaum, general manager of the Indiana Transportation company, which chartered the Eastland for the outing, was summoned to the state's attorney's office and questioned by State Attorney Hoyne.

IS POSTPONED AGAIN

HEARING ON CHELMSFORD STREET BRIDGE PUT OVER UNTIL MONDAY NEXT

At a hearing of the county commissioners given this morning in the East Cambridge court house, a petition from the Boston & Maine railroad was read asking that the plans of the city of Lowell relative to the construction of the new Chelmsford street bridge be dismissed. The petition was taken on the petition and the hearing was postponed until Monday.

Present at the hearing besides the three county commissioners were Secretary John H. Murphy of the board of trade, City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy and Mr. Ives, representing the Bay State Street railway. The Boston & Maine railroad was not represented and for this reason the commission did not care to go ahead with the hearing.

Secretary Murphy was present in an effort to have a more convenient stairway installed in place of the one now in use. The board of trade contends that stairs could be built over the express company offices and therefore eliminate the long climb necessary to reach Chelmsford street at present. It has also been suggested that an escalator be installed.

LOWELL MAN CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT TO KILL

James F. Gallagher Fired Four
Shots at Lawrence Clothing
Dealer—Held in $10,000 Bail

James F. Gallagher, 22, of 5 Bradford street, Lawrence, formerly of Lowell, was arraigned in the Lawrence
police court this morning on the charge of attempt to murder Bryon Weiner, 25, junior member of the firm
of Samuel Weiner & Co. Gallagher
pleaded not guilty and his bail was fixed at $10,000. Weiner is in critical condition at the Lawrence General hospital. He was operated upon this morning and the doctors say his chances for recovery are not quite
even.

The shooting followed an argument
over $5 paid down on a suit of clothes
returned to the Weiner Credit Clothing Co. Four shots are said to have been fired. One hit Weiner in the right
lung and another entered his left arm.
The other two went wild.

The Weiner store is situated at 530
Essex street, Lawrence, and the trouble
created a great deal of excitement,
the street being crowded at the time with
operatives from the mills on their way
home.

According to the police, Gallagher
purchased a suit of clothes on credit
from Weiner four weeks ago, paying
five dollars down and telling Weiner
that he was working at the Stevens
mill in North Andover. Later, it is said,
Weiner learned that Gallagher was not
working, and he demanded and got the
suit back.

Late yesterday afternoon Weiner
was going over his books with his stenographer, Sarah C. Berger, when Gallagher walked into the store. He demanded the five dollars he had paid
on deposit, it is said, and a heated discussion ensued between him and Wein-
er. Finally, it is said, Gallagher asked Weiner to step to the door. When the latter did so, Gallagher, it is alleged,
drew a .33-calibre revolver and shouting, "No one is going to rob me, Weiner, you are going on a long journey,"
fired four shots.

Weiner gasped his breast, shouted,
"I'm shot," and staggered across the room, collapsing near his desk. Gallag-
her, it is alleged, fled for the stair-
way, but did not succeed in escaping.

679 BODIES FOUND

Steamer Turned Bottom Up Pouring
Its Passengers Into River—Scream-
ing Men, Women and Children
Fought Desperately for Their Lives
—Firemen Cut Through Sides of
Vessel, and Found Bodies Piled On
One Another—Officers Arrested

CHICAGO, July 24.—Hundreds of
persons were drowned today when
the steamer Eastland, crowded with 2500 employees of the Western Electric company, capsized in the Chicago
river. Four hours after the accident
rescuers were still taking bodies from
the boat through holes chopped in
its hull, and estimates of the death
list ran from 1200 to 1500.

At 2 o'clock 679 bodies had been recovered.
At 2:40 o'clock this afternoon Coroner Hoffman estimated the number of dead at 1300.

First Deputy Chief of Police Schuettler estimated the number of dead at 1700.

Officers of Boat Arrested
The crowding of passengers to one
side of the boat is supposed to have caused the tragedy, but the authorities, not satisfied with this explanation, ordered the arrest of officers of
the boat and Capt. Harry Pedersen
and Bell Fisher, first mate, were
taken to police headquarters.

Panic Struck Passengers
Panic struck the passengers when
the boat began to turn over. Best
accounts of witnesses said the steamer rolled slightly twice, then turned
further and that hundreds of screaming, struggling men, women and children slid across the sloping decks,
fought for room and clutched at companions, deck chairs or any other object that came to hand.

Desperate Battle for Life
Women and children by the hundreds were caught below decks, and
the scratched faces, torn clothing and
bruised bodies of the dead bore evidence to the desperation with which
they had fought for life.

The steamer turned over in less than five minutes. Members of the crew shouted warnings as the steamer first tilted and endeavored to drive
the passengers to the upper side of
the deck but the incline was already
too steep.

Poured Passengers Into River
Slowly, so as to agonize the spectators drawn to the scene by the shouts of warning and fear, the great
steel hulk turned bottom up, pouring
its passengers into the river.

Some 7000 tickets had been distributed for the excursion and five
steamers chartered by the company.
The Eastland was first to receive its
quota, and when its licensed capacity
was reached, federal inspectors ordered that no more be taken aboard.
The boat was docked on the south side
of the river and when the hundreds
hurry to the boat were turned back
from it they streamed across Clark
street bridge to the steamer Theodore

Roosevelt which was to take the second load.

Screams Halted Rush
Screams of the Eastland victims
halted this rush, and the bridge was
jammed with people until police, fearful that the structure would collapse,
ordered it closed.

Mercantile concerns hurried motor
trucks to the scene laden with blankets
to warm the living or cover the dead.
Pulmonologists by the score were sent to
the dock. Physicians, police, firemen,
government life savers and nurses were
summoned.

The steamer, when relieved of its
passengers, floated on its side into
mid-stream and tugs, motorboats and
other river craft swarmed about it.
Firemen climbed on the hull, forced
openings in the steel hull and through these searched the cabins for possible victims.

2500 Aboard
Robert H. McCurry, chief of the marine bureau of the customs office,
was present at the dock from 6:45
o'clock this morning with two of his steamboat navigation inspectors. He declared that the exact number of persons on the boat was 2500; that the
boat was not overloaded; and that
"the passengers could not have been
more accurately counted if they had
known there would be an accident."

Patrolmen Fred Fisher and John
S. Lescher, who were on duty at the Clark street bridge, when the accident occurred, led in the rescue work.
They obtained a rowboat and life
preservers, went to the steamer and
succeeded in saving 50 persons.

Bodies Piled on One Another
When firemen chopped and forced their way through the side of the hull of the overturned boat they found bodies piled on one another.
They began taking them out and placing them on the tug Racine.
There they were placed on stretchers and carried ashore. As fast as bodies were taken on the wharves they were carried to the steamer Theodore Roosevelt or into nearby buildings, or the stretchers were set down on the streets where scores of physicians and volunteer rescuers began attempts at resuscitation.

50 Priests Rush to Scene
Fifty Catholic priests, summoned hurriedly, reached the scene of the disaster shortly after 10 o'clock.
Some of the priests went aboard the steamer Theodore Roosevelt, which was turned into a temporary morguese, but most of them devoted their attention to the dying and injured.

There were 72 men in the crew of the Eastland and all of them were reported to have escaped by swimming to the wharf. Later they aided in the rescue work.

The last annual inspection of the Eastland was made in St. Joseph, Mich., May 7, 1915. On July 6 a drydock examination of the boat's hull was made by Capt. Ira B. Mansfield and William J. Nicholas, local steamboat inspectors.

60 Per Cent. of Dead Were Women
Bodies were removed to down town morgues in wagonloads. Sixty percent. of the dead were women, a deputy coroner said.

Pulled Out Victims
For the first two hours attempts were made to revive every person taken from the wreck. Then, as the hopelessness of the resuscitating later victims became apparent, divers were summoned to explore the depths of the boat. Equipped with ropes, they groped their way into the innermost recesses of the hull. Every other minute their assistants were signalled to "pull" and another victim was added to the number of the dead. It was the results of the divers' work that caused the coroner and police estimates to mount above 1000.

Watch for Bodies
Police and fire tugs organized the river craft into a rescue fleet. Boats were directed to move down the river and watch for bodies, and the sanitary canal trustees were asked to close the dam at Lockport, Ill., thus shutting off
the current of the river, in order to aid in this work.

Rumors of the disaster spread rapidly. Its full significance was realized when motor trucks, piled high with blanketed forms, rolled through the loop district to morgues and undertaking establishments.

Ball Games Called Off
The American and Federal league baseball games were called off, many theatres announced that their doors
would be closed tonight and churches summoned their members to pray for the dead.

Flags at Half Mast
Flags were lowered to half mast and many business establishments were draped in black.

Identification of victims offered comparatively few difficulties. Measures were taken by the police and the electrical company to systematize the work of identification, and these were in full operation later in the day.

Investigations Started Investigations were started by the federal inspectors, the city police,
county coroner and state's attorney.
The activity of this last official hinted
at possible submission of the results of his investigation to the grand jury.

Mayor Thompson and Gov. Foss were in San Francisco and Chief of British governments on the general

subject of warfare on the sea.

ATTEMPT TO SINK U.S. WARSHIP AT CAMDEN

The Destroyer Ericsson Found
Going Down at Dock—Saved
By Prompt Use of Pumps

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—Officials of the United States were informed that the torpedo boat destroyer Ericsson, completed and ready for delivery,
had been found in a sinking condition
Wednesday morning as she lay at her dock in the yard of the New York
Shipbuilding company at Camden, N. J.

Only the prompt action of the officials of the company, who placed their largest pumps in the Ericsson, kept the decks above water. The destroyer had been pumped out, and, besides a little green slime, appears to be none
the worse.

The Ericsson was nearly sunk by having the sea cock in her hold opened by some person, who visited the vessel after 9 o'clock Tuesday night, when William Boyle, the watchman left the destroyer and reported everything on board was safe for the night.

As was the case with the Oklahoma,
which was badly damaged by fire the night previous, officials of the shipbuilding company did everything to keep this latest attempt to damage
United States property at their yard
from becoming public.

Police Healey and the chief government engineer were also out of town.

Equipped With Water Ballast
A few hours inquiry caused investigating officials to lean strongly toward the theory that the peculiar construction of the boat was responsible for the accident. The Eastland, which was equipped with water ballast so that it could enter the harbor of South Haven, Mich., at other shallow ports and river mouths. When approaching such entries the water would be forced from the tanks, reducing the boat's draft.
Ballast would be taken on again when the vessel emerged from harbor.

Steamer Top Heavy
It was the theory of the officials that most of the ballast had been forced from the tanks in anticipation of a heavy load today. The steamer was thus rendered top-heavy, it was thought. This, if a fact would explain why she capsized so quickly.

The strength of the river current was another factor that engaged the attention in connection with the possibility that the keel had grounded in the mud of the river bed. Those who discussed this theory thought that the current, working against the pull of the hawsers toward the dock, made a fulcrum of the keel, and turned the steamer over. This theory, too, was based largely upon alleged top-heavy condition of the vessel.

Still another theory was that a tug started pulling the steamer before the wharf lines were cast off. This, however, was denied.

Accused of Robbing Dead
A man giving the name of Tony San-tonis was arrested after a struggle with the overturned steamer and was accused of robbing the dead under pretense of aiding the work of rescue.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE

BOY ROLLED UNDER SWIFTLY MOVING CAR BUT CRAWLED OUT AFTER BEING DRAGGED 15 FEET

BOSTON, July 24.—Dragged under an electric car on Washington street for 15 feet, 10-year-old William Simpson of 1 Mt. Vernon place, Charlestown, had a remarkable escape from death yesterday morning. His only injuries consisted of a few contusions. Young Simpson was riding on a wagon driven by Frank Roche when, just north of Water street, on Washington street, the vehicle was struck by a trolley car operated by William J. Driscoll of Charlestown. The hand-rail at the front of the car swished the wagon and threw the horse off its feet. Roche and the Simpson boy were flung from the seat and the lad rolled under the swiftly moving car. Hardly had the car stopped when the terrified onlookers were amazed to see young Simpson crawl out from under the car, little the worse for his experience. Roche sustained a fractured clavicle, abrasions of the lip and contusions of the elbow, ankles and scapula.

The B. F. Goodrich Co. has been making history in the Rubber Industry, for more than 45 years. It has always been the Leader! It has almost never had a "Boom," or the reaction that follows Boom.

It has been Conservative in all its moves—never Experimenting at its Customers' Expense, yet never lagging behind first place in the Procession.

It has been the Pioneer in nearly all great improvements made in the Working of Rubber.

And, it has grown steadily, surely, as well as stupendously, until the largest Rubber Factory in the World today, is that of The B. F. Goodrich Co. at Akron, O.

The Operations of this Factory require, and utilize, more than 75 Acres of Floor Space, and The B. F. Goodrich Co. frequently employs more than 15,000 people.

NO other Rubber Factory in the World buys so much Crude Rubber, manufacturing as it does more than 90,000,000 lbs. of Rubber Goods yearly.

It pays one-sixth of all the Taxes in the City of Akron, which City has 15 other Rubber Concerns, and more than 100,000 Population.

Some of its "White Anchor" Fire Hose, made 'way back in 1884 (30 years ago), is still doing good service, because of the Precision Principle and Quality Ambition that lie behind all Goodrich Co. products.

Every day in the year, on average, the operations of The B. F. Goodrich Co. result in its receiving more than 30,000 pieces of Mail, and more than 350 Telegrams.

It manufactures 284 Classes of Rubber Goods.

Some of these Classes subdivide into large businesses.

Every day, on average, The B. F. Goodrich Company Factory manufactures—

- 60 Miles of Insulated Wire.
- 14 Miles of Rubber Hose.
- 5 Miles of Rubber Belting.

CLEVELAND, O., July 24.—Season records went by the board yesterday in the final program of the Grand Circuit racing at North Randall. The day's card was sensational, a fitting climax to the best week of racing the local track has ever known.

Only son by Pop Geers, Napoleon Direct, in the 2:03 pace, went the first heat in 2:02 3/4, and repeated in the second heat in 2:03 flat, being a season pacing record, as well as the fastest two-heat record this year for a pace.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION IN BIG STRIKE
AT STANDARD OIL PLANT IN BAYONNE, N. J.

1. THROWING LIGHTED BOMB ON TANK OF OIL—2. STORMING WALL OF OIL PLANT

Several persons met their death and hundreds were wounded in the big strike at the plant of the Standard Oil company, in Bayonne, N. J., when strikers and their sympathizers clashed with the armed guards of the company. Sheriff Kinkead of Hudson county had a great force of deputies to preserve order during the first few days before preparations were made to call out state troops. In the accompanying illustration is shown strikers and their sympathizers storming the concrete wall which surrounds the plant of the company. There also is shown a mob trying to set fire to one of the great oil tanks by hurling lighted bombs on them.

to the encampment, several meetings will be held at which the routine of camp life will be gone over in detail, and each member of the respective companies will be told what to expect and what is expected of him during the week's tactics.

It is the aim of Rev. D. A. Sullivan, O. M. I. the founder and spiritual director of the organization, that the boys be trained to understand the present war maneuvers in Europe, and as far as possible the tactics of the practically by maneuvers in the ranks of the campers. As the cadets are divided into several divisions, viz., cavalry, artillery, infantry, musicians and ambulance, it will be possible to have very realistic war games. There will be two main divisions for the more important skirmishes and the two main divisions will be brought into use. To carry out the realistic attitude, an army doctor and several trained nurses will be on hand to look after the health of the boys.

The rules of West Point will obtain during the entire encampment. The morning will be given over to military maneuvers and every afternoon a dress parade will be held. As in former years visitors will be cordially welcomed at the camp.

The cadets will wear their new uniforms to camp for which over $2000 has just been expended and the regular khaki uniforms will also be worn in the maneuvers. Police Officer "Matt" McCann will undoubtedly go along with the boys as physical director, and several military instructors will be in charge of the field work.

Following the announcement of the encampment at the meeting last night, talks were given to the boys by Rev. D. A. Sullivan and Major William Conroy, and when the meeting adjourned the cadets gave three rousing cheers for both.

All Arrangements Completed for Annual Encampment

Everything is now in readiness for the annual encampment of the O. M. I. Cadets of the Immaculate Conception church, final arrangements having been completed at a special meeting held last night in the Immaculate Conception school hall, and the hundreds of little soldiers who look forward to their strenuous but delightful encampment feel sure that in the whole range of the European war there will not be a battalion more thoroughly up-to-date, or more imbued with a spirit of military discipline than they. In the years that the cadets have been in existence they were never more enthusiastic than at the present time.

The organization will pitch tents on the same camp ground at Milligan's grove, where the tactics were held last year, but the cadets will enjoy a week of camp life instead of four days which was the length of the encampment last August. The start for the camping grounds will be made on Monday morning, August 23 and the return trip on August 25, will be celebrated with a sham battle.

PRESIDENT WILSON OFF FOR ANOTHER BRIEF VACATION AT THE SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—President Wilson, who is en route to Cornish, N. H., for another brief vacation, left for this morning and plainly showed the effects of his close application to the German situation and his work in preparation of the latest German note. To members of his party he expressed his realization of the possibilities of the situation.

During the early part of the president's ride few people greeted him as it had not become generally known that he was on the train, but during the forenoon the crowds became thicker and at nearly every station people were given to the hope of seeing the president as the train sped through.

The president breakfasted with Dr. Cary T. Grayson and planned to spend some of the forenoon at work on official business.

MATRIMONIAL

Benjamin P. Williston formerly of this city, where he was employed as a timekeeper at the Saginaw, Mich., and now of Bangor, Me., and Miss Marion L. Sprague, also of Bangor, were married July 12 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Sprague, 12 Center street, by Rev. Frederick Paladino of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bride was a sister of the bridegroom. The ceremony was attended by a close friend, Frederick R. Dixon, student at the Bangor Theological seminary. The happy couple after an extended wedding tour will make their home in Bangor, Me.

TREATMENT OF COTTON

MAKING IT CONTRABAND UNITED

WHOLE WORLD AGAINST EN-GLAND 100 YEARS AGO

LONDON, July 23, 8.55 p. m.—Replying to newspapers and publicists who are demanding that cotton shall be made absolute contraband regardless of the effect of such action on neutral nations, the Weekly Nation says:

"Some such similar action united against us in active warfare or armed neutrality the whole civilized world a hundred years ago even in the end dragging us into a dreary fight with the United States."

The Nation points out that Great Britain protested against cotton being declared contraband during the Russo-Japanese war, and that in the declaration of London the British representatives insisted upon having cotton placed on the free list. "The mere abrogation of this document," continues the paper, "would not satisfy neutrals or such interests as those of the American cotton states which wish to know whether Britain's command of the seas is to justify her in making or unmaking international law as it suits her convenience of the moment."

The Nation considers, however, that if Germany had diverted all cotton supplies for the manufacture of munitions of war a new situation would have arisen and the declaration of cotton as absolute contraband could be justified before the world; but even then the treatment of cotton destined for neutral states would remain to be considered and the Nation assures editors to leave the decision to the foreign office, which has all the facts.

FOR BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

In spite of all the recommendations by the board of the underwriters for such changes in our building laws as would provide greater security against fires no action has been taken by the municipal council.

The matter of eliminating so far as practicable the shingle roof and encouraging fire proof construction is one of great importance as upon the change depends very largely the standard of insurance rates to be fixed for property in Lowell.

Last year the national board of fire underwriters made a survey of this city in reference to fire prevention and made certain very important recommendations among which were changes in our fire alarm system and the motorization of our fire department; improvements in electric wiring, the correction of old wiring and the correction of all defects; the installation of automatic sprinklers in all buildings which might be regarded as conflagration breeders.

But one of the most important recommendations had reference to building construction and was stated as follows:

That the building code be revised to conform to modern requirements for construction and fire prevention, especially as to limitations of heights and areas and protection to floor and exposed window openings.

That the fire limits be extended to include the entire area of the mill and woodworking districts and to properly safeguard the southern part of the business district, that the construction of buildings be so regulated as to prevent the development of dangerous conditions, and that incombustible roof coverings be required on all new or repaired buildings.

That change would necessitate the prohibition of the shingle roof in all new buildings and the substitution of fireproof roofing where worn out shingles are to be replaced.

This provision would greatly lessen the spread of fires and consequently reduce the fire hazards. The board of underwriters recently sent one of their engineers here to investigate how far the recommendations of a year ago had been carried out. He found that in the water department certain necessary changes had been made and that others were about to be made in the fire department, all calculated to lessen the fire risks and offer greater security for life and property. But the other recommendations had not been acted upon.

ANOTHER CANCER CURE

So many cures for cancer have been discovered that it is a wonder anybody dies of the disease. The great trouble is that none of the cures has proved effective, not even the radio treatment.

The latest is the snow cure, consisting of snow frozen so hard that its temperature registers 250 degrees below zero. It is artificially manufactured and formed into pencils with which the skin affected is touched at intervals. The effect is said to restore the skin to a healthy condition. This remedy is being used in the Boston City Hospital and is said to be effective in preventing the overgrowth of new tissue which this disease causes, and which will eventually result in death if not checked. There is no other disease on which medical science is exerting so much study to find an effective cure. It is quite probable that ultimately science will score a triumph in this case as in several others almost as important.

TO SAVE BECKER

It is now proposed to institute what is known as "John Doe proceedings" in the Becker case. This means the bringing of a criminal prosecution before a magistrate by submitting to him a sworn statement that a definite crime has been committed by a person whose name is not known to the complainant and who is, therefore, designated as John Doe.

In order to be valid the prosecution must point to some particular person as the accused and this would entail investigation which would require plenty of time. Thus it is intended to defeat the application of the penalty of the law in the Becker case. It would be a disgrace to the courts of New York to tolerate such a palpable attempt to defeat the sentence of the court by a legal device that can be regarded only as the last resort of convicted criminals to save their necks.

THE PROGRESSIVES

Ex-Senator Burbank undertakes to tell the republicans on what conditions they can get the progressive vote. National prohibition, woman suffrage and a constitutional convention for the submission of the initiative and referendum are among the leading demands of the progressives in lieu of their support. If they insist upon these conditions they can find them chiefly

LABOR TROUBLES AND WAR

If we have so much trouble over the fact that our ammunition factories are running ostensibly to meet the demand for munitions by the belligerents in the European war, what would be the conditions if the United States were engaged in war? Would we have numerous strikes? Would the strikers use the bomb and the torch to strike their point, or would they delight in embarrassing the government as the labor unions of England have done ever since that country entered the war? The control of the labor unions is one of the worst difficulties England has to contend with and judging from present conditions in this country the United States would be in a similar predicament if not a great deal worse, in case of war. During the war at least strikes and lockouts should be forbidden and all differences between employer and employee in regard to wages or hours of labor should be settled by arbitration.

THE SUBMARINE

The area of operation of a submarine boat has been gradually extended and now it is claimed that one has been built that can go across the ocean and return without seeking a base of fuel supply. All that is needed now is to build one that can go around the world without replenishing its oil tanks.—Providence Tribune.

We are not to assume from the above that such a submarine is built on this side of the ocean. From all we can learn our submarines are of very little use. Some of them are incapable of returning to the surface if sunk to a depth of thirty fathoms. Moreover if they go any great distance from their base they are not likely to return. It is up to the naval invention board to give us submarines that will compete with those of Germany. The English article appears to be as helpless as our own.

AN EMPTY THREAT

The German Americans found to be working in American ammunition factories are to be subject to imprisonment for treason against Germany. How does Germany expect to apply that code to American citizens? The ammunition is not made for any particular belligerent but for any power that wants it. The manufacture of war material being a legitimate private business, it is subject to the general laws of trade same as the manufacture of cloth or of shoes.

WILLARD WALLOPED

Jesse Willard, the champion pugilist of the world, does not act much like a real champion. He betrayed the yellow streak in this city where, in a very tame exhibition bout, he was hissed and as a result, school boy like, he challenged "any man in the crowd" to come up and stand before him. The challenge was not accepted here, but on a similar challenge at Framingham, Sandy Ferguson of Boston jumped into the ring and gave Willard all the boxing he wanted until both, in what seemed very much like a wrestling match, fell through the ropes.

When Miss Jane Addams declared that the soldiers of the warring nations are made drunk before they shoot to kill or before they make a bayonet charge, she shows a woman's idea of a man's courage. Does she question the statements of eye witnesses to whole regiments rushing on the carnous mouth and apparently glorying in the opportunity to die for their respective countries? Miss Addams denies the true soldier's heroism which is more severely tried in this than in any other war that ever existed.

Upon the outcome of the European war will depend whether this and every other nation on earth will have to make military service compulsory, build new factories for turning out the most powerful machines for the destruction of human life and keep always prepared for war at short notice.

That campaign style cannot be built before next year it will be necessary to start something like an on which a large gang of men can be employed up till election day. The summer street extension might serve as a substitute.

Mr. Bryan is very busy upon what he calls the subsidized newspaper. As Mr. Bryan views it when a paper disagrees with his views it is subsidized. A great many other people detect the subsidized news, for in the same way.

Gov. Walsh has not yet declared whether he will be a candidate for re-election. If he should he would show a more unshaken faith than did

most of his predecessors in the face of such favorable prospects.

The Lowell militia ranks high as it has always done and if ever the country calls for troops, the men of Lowell as of yore will be among the foremost to respond for action.

The speech of Gov. Walsh at the Panama exposition was one of the best he ever delivered. The governor can make an eloquent speech when the occasion demands it.

The drop of $2.20 in the tax rate of Salisbury this year is glad news for the harassed cottage owners.

There will be no sea serpents this summer. They have all been harnessed to the German submarines.

Milady's Boudoir

The Neapetot Toe Nails In the bathing season, especially now that women appear on the beach more or less barefooted, the care of the nails is just as important as the fingers and toes. A woman's foot comes to light for once in its life, and not in the least, if you will you see the nails of the foot anything but distorted, uncared for, abused looking specimens.

Perhaps the cause of this was laid in childhood days, when it was in ways too much trouble to clip the toenails, or perhaps it is because the toenails are so sensitive as to some other portions of the body, allowing hurts to be inflicted on it without acute pain, and slowly, dumbly healing the wound.

However it may be, the little protest, "it is all good enough so far as the care of the toenails is concerned, and the nail itself and the skin around it, is accorded almost barbarous ill usage.

To wish for shining, well shaped finger nails is very natural on the part of the damsel who wishes to appear in good trim, but at the same time she should extend this care to the nails of her feet, even if they are made of beauty, the right care of the body is done because it is right, and not as a means to an end. Therefore, the toenails should be regularly shaped and cared for, if they are to be as good as the nails of the hands and the matrix and nails that are bruised and black.

COMMUNICATIONS

Editor Sun: Will you please inform me whether there is any truth in the statement being secretly circulated in certain quarters that German submarines are receiving supplies from the Irish coast and that one of these submarines is soon to begin operations on the Canadian coast? By answering you will oblige Yours Truly, S. P. J.

So far as can be learned there is no truth in these stories for a purpose. The German submarines carry their own supplies and take no chances by approaching the shores of the enemy for rations or anything else. The shores of Ireland are well patrolled by government patrol boats and naval officers so that if there was any attempt to connect with the German submarines it would soon be found out. Moreover, the Irish people are well patrolled by government patrol boats and naval officers so that if there was any attempt to connect with the German submarines it would soon be found out. BUILDING AND REALTY

Indications point to increased activity in the building line and architects and builders anticipate a busy season. The permits taken out at city hall during the present week were quite numerous but did not represent a great amount of money in the way of estimated costs as the majority of them were for additions and alterations.

The Cherry and Webb company, lessees of the building at 12 and 13 John street in which their store is located have planned to make extensive alterations. The basement is to be deepened several feet and the interior to be finished up. The separating walls in the basement will be removed, thus making the basement one large room instead of two smaller ones. In the forward part of the store a large circular stair will be put in, extending from the first story to the basement. Refinishing and repairs will be made around the interior of the store generally, adding greatly to the appearance and attractiveness of the store. The light areas to the basement will also be enlarged. The estimated cost of these alterations is $5000.

Margaret E. Grand, 1 W. 11th street issued a permit to raise the roof of her house at 3 W. 11th st. 4 feet, thus making the rooms square. She will also change this cottage house into a two tenement dwelling of 5 rooms, pantry and bath each.

Of all the materials employed by the builder, wood is used with the least judgment.

For some unknown reason the public has labored under the delusion that all wood is the same. Consequently when building or improving work is undertaken lumber is ordered by quantity and dimension. Little, if any, attention is given the question of whether or not the lumber furnished is suitable.

No other country in the world has produced so many valuable woods as North America. It should follow that the people of America know all about wood values and uses. In no other country, however, is so little attention paid to the selection of woods for particular uses.

The earlier settlers made their selections and used timber wastefully. The only price they paid was labor. Their reckless use made serious inroads on the supply of certain classes of timber. It is not so much a question of their being of quality inferior to that of the wood first employed as it is a question of being structurally different.

Those about to build should get away from the national carelessness in using the valuable and varied products of our forests. They should "select" specific kinds of wood for the particular purposes for which they are adapted. They should cease to "order" sizes. This change will place them on a par with the wood users of other countries where the American product is highly prized and is used intelligently.

There is no necessity for you just to "happen" to get the right kind of wood for the purpose for which you desire to use it. You can select by the use of wood and derive satisfaction from it if you will give this subject a little thought at the right time and that is before the work is started.

One great drawback to the profitable use of wood has been the lack of understanding of the merits and values of particular woods for certain uses. Wood is used carelessly and without thought for its possibilities.

In connection with the purchase of no other kinds of material will the exercise of knowledge and judgment yield so great returns. If individual woods were better known their use would be more satisfactory.

If you elect, you can build a home without using a piece of lumber. Those who know the material best, however, believe that by using wood judiciously and intelligently you can build at less cost and secure a home that in every way is more comfortably and satisfactorily.

STOLE BUILDING BENT PROPERTY SOLD

Story of Lawrence St. Property Wanted for Public Playground

Here is a case in which a house was stolen from its foundation on Lawrence street and now the people in the vicinity want the land turned to a public playground or connected by a rustic bridge with the Boston & Maine land on the other side of the Concord river.

Mr. Wm. J. G. Myers, a well known newspaperman formerly of this city but now of New Haven, Conn., was in this city a few days ago and visited his property in Lawrence street a little above the Scripture laundry and on the same side. Mr. Myers tells an amusing story about this piece of property. He bought it some 23 years ago at a tax sale conducted by the city treasurer paying only a little over the amount of taxes due upon the property. Mr. Myers expected that the owners would soon come around to pay the taxes and other expenses and have the property restored in the usual way.

He found, however, that there were no claimants. Then he had the title loaned up and there seemed to be some uncertainty as to the actual ownership. It belonged apparently to A. C. Woodcock but whether he abandoned it intentionally on account of some flaw in the title is not known. Anyhow he made no claim to the property nor would he assist in any way in clearing the title.

There was nothing left for Mr. Myers to do but to hold the property until a claimant appeared or until he secured a clear title by possession. There was a building upon the land that had been used as a blacksmith shop and valued at something like $500. It became vacant after a time and nobody seemed to want it. Mr. Myers had the doors and windows boarded up. After some years, however, some of the boards were torn off so that boys could enter the building and do as they pleased inside. Some three years ago not only the windows but the doors disappeared and eventually people in the vicinity felt upon the old building and tore it down for kindling wood clearing away the whole structure in a night. The land is now here as if there never was any building on it at all. It is assessed for $1000.

Mr. Myers has been paying taxes on it for over 22 years and according to the statutes he has now an absolutely clear title by right of possession for that period. He has paid in taxes to the city for this piece of property over $500 and he had to meet other expenses such as paying for shoveling the snow and for a bridge across the premises together with some repairs and carpenter work done after he took possession of the building.

WAR CAUSES TRANSFER

TO UNITED STATES AND CANADA OF TRADE BETWEEN NEW-FOUNDLAND AND ENGLAND

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 24.—The transfer to the United States and Canada of a large amount of the trade ordinarily carried on between Newfoundland and Great Britain is one of the results of the war. This arises from the changes in the shipping situation.

The gradual withdrawal of trans-Atlantic steamers from this port because of the transport needs of the British admiralty and the requirements of British trade has reached a point where only three small steamers are now plying between St. Johns and Liverpool. These are freight vessels of the Furness line, with practically no passenger accommodation.

The latest reduction in the service is the taking off of the Allen line steamers which for nearly 50 years have plied between Glasgow, St. Johns, Halifax and Philadelphia. These ships, the Mongolian, Carthagenian, Pomeranian and Sardinian, are to be transferred to the route between Montreal and British ports.

Business men have necessarily made new connections in Canada and the United States, and steamers making weekly trips between St. Johns, Halifax and New York are laden to the hatches.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

CHARLEY CHAPLIN CONTEST

Big and stupendous are the proper names for the Charley Chaplin contest to be run in the Casino, starting Friday evening, July 30th.

The B. C. McGuire company of Lowell, Mass., under whose auspices this contest is being run, reports that indications are that the contest will surpass their best expectations.

The young men of Lowell have entered into the spirit of the contest in every way. They are doing their best to make what an excellent opportunity the company is offering them in a tour of the middle west. Seeing the country in every young man's ambition and health is a golden opportunity, not only to see the country, but to be permanently connected with the theatrical sphere for life.

Contestants' names have already been put in, and while the company intended to advertise only in Lawrence, Haverhill, Manchester, Nashua and Lowell, it seems that our Lowell papers are far more reaching in getting in touch with the public, for the company is in receipt of two applications for distant places, one from Lewiston, Me., and one from Pawtucket, R. I.

For their opening night a cabaret feature will be an additional attraction to the contest. The company has secured several of Boston's best singers, including Mr. Edward Nicholson, Boston's favorite baritone, Billy Lewis, that little comedian who is so popular in Boston's cabaret houses; Mr. Jack White, one of Boston's best tenors; Mr. Frank McDonough, known not only in the United States but in England through the middle western states as well as the great piano wizard.

Several entries have already been made for the exhibition dancing contest, which is another added attraction that the company offers to the patrons of the contest. Ten dollars will be awarded to the winning couple.

The general price of admission to all will be 25c. Free dancing all the evening to the music of the new famous Kasha 5-piece orchestra.

H. F. KELTH'S THEATRE

"The Right of Way," the five-part Metro picture, which is being shown at the H. F. Kelth theatre today, with William Faversham in the leading role, will undoubtedly be classed as one of the finest motion picture productions ever seen in this city. In conception, photography and in acting it is a superb feature and well worth a view. The picture is made from the novel of the same name by Sir Gilbert Parker. Many there are who recall the appearance of this now famous book, one which has caused much discussion but which has been universally commended as a serious character study. Charles Steele, the leading character, is a brilliant lawyer, addicted to the use of liquor, and an athlete. The turn of events sends him into a little French Canadian village where he falls in love with "Rose" the postmistress. At first he is looked upon as a heretic and is persecuted. Later, through deeds of daring, he is considered to be a hero, and is made custodian of the funds given for the erection of a new Catholic church. Robbers purloin the funds and in the chase after them "Steele" comes in contact with the other "Steele", a Christian, or whether he passed out short unconvincing. Four other and shorter pictures are also shown. Tomorrow afternoon will feature a special display of pictures will be made.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Kilmeny" in five acts with Lenora Ulrich will be presented at the Merrimack Square theatre today for the last time. This is the charming picture which together with "Fino Feathers," also in five acts, are the big numbers on the program during these last three days of this week. Each picture is a picture of a girl who dwells for many years with the gypsies, living their monotonous, uneventful existence, while "Kilmeny" dwells with those who live in the busy cities of men and whose lives are full of excitement and intrigue. Several funny comedies are also included in this program, which will be seen today for the last time. Watch for the announcement of "The Eternal City" in right acts, Hal Cane's greatest work. A splendid musical comedy will be given at the Merrimack Square theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

THE TALKING CRICKET

Once upon a time there was a little girl who, lived in the country a long way from any other children and so she had to make friends with the birds and animals. One day she was sitting on the front steps thinking what she could do when she heard a noise quite near her and heard a little voice say: "How do you do?" She looked around but only saw a little cricket and she didn't see how it could be that. Again something said: "How do you do?" "Did you speak to me?" asked the girl. "Yes I did," said the cricket. "I am going to talk with you if you will let me. I can tell you lots of stories of what we can do to have fun and I think you will be interested."

"Now last night," continued the cricket, "I went to a big ball and danced with the night and that is why I am so tired today. We had the humpback band to play for us and they play so well everyone wants to dance all the time. All the crickets I know were there and nearly everybody else, for it was the last ball of the season. I danced with the big June bug most of the time for he is such a fine dancer it seems more like dancing in the air than dancing and everyone wants to dance with him, so it is quite a compliment to be his partner."

"Oh I would like to see you dance," said the little girl. "All right, I will take you tonight," said the cricket. "We are going to have a dance right in your yard. So that night the little girl went with the cricket to see them dance. They had refreshments and were very polite to the guest and heaped her with all sorts of nice things to eat."

The next morning she told her brothers about going to the crickets' ball but they only laughed and told her she dreamed it, but she is sure it really happened. What do you think?

What Hortense Told Me

Too often does the girl, who had natural beauty in her youth, squander it prodigally, keeping late hours, overeating and eating irregularly, food rich, but not particularly nourishing, says Hortense. Health and strength are the props on which beauty depends for support and, when these are constantly being destroyed, the girl who is to continue in the possession of health and strength no new laws are needed, but the old rule of plenty of sleep, nourishing food, clean regularity, and much exercise must be observed. The girl who at 17 or 18 was the envy of her plainer sisters, frequently appears faded and haggard at 20, when she should be in the prime of her most attractive period. It must be admitted that it is not always their own doing that makes plain girls grow old, but many of the opportunities for dissipation offered the prettier girl, and there was not so much to come between them and their youth as there is for the plain girl. Hortense says if you will sprinkle a few drops of perfume through your hair after you have shampooed it, and when it is dry, rub it in, you will find that it is worth the effort. It is a very daily way of perfuming it is to wear while one is dressing and eating, breakfast, and the evening meal. The scent will last a day and possibly two.

Sometimes early gray hair is hereditary, but often it is brought on by eyestrain, headache and poor health generally. See that none of these causes are attributed to your gray hair. The following remedy will take the scalp has a good effect. White vasoline three ounces, castor oil, one and a half ounces, garlic acid, one and a half ounces, mix and rub into the scalp. Apply twice a week and be careful not to get it on the hair.

If you are convinced that both dry and wet shampoos disagree with your hair, try white of egg. As you cannot believe that it is well for the hair to have the following remedy. Mix one month at a time you will be pleased with this shampoo. First you should beat the whites of two eggs until they are as stiff as possible. Next take a handful of the egg and proceed to massage the scalp, rubbing with a light, circular movement of the fingers. When the egg whites are exhausted, take a small amount of lard or oil for 15 or 20 minutes. A clean brush should then be given the hair for several minutes, but the end of the brush should be used to clean the hair, leaving the hair and scalp as clean as the heart could wish. This white of egg treatment will make the hair delightfully fluffy.

Dandruff is a fatal foe to beauty when every woman realizes how much beauty is lost by it. Hortense has given me an ointment with which to moisten the scalp every night. The mixture is precepted sulphur, 15 grains, and 30 grains of lard. Do not throw the hair over the eyes, or rub the eyes with the fingers while giving this treatment as the sulphur comes into the eyes and causes smarting in a most distressing way. Use nightly for four weeks, then skip every other night for two weeks. The dandruff will be gone and the hair will be as soft as silk. After the six weeks stop the ointment and moisten the scalp nightly with the following lotion for six weeks: Salicylic acid, one part; glycerine, two parts; alcohol, 70 parts; distilled water, 30 parts. Fill a medicine dropper and apply by running the dropper through the hair.

The nose can be improved in shape by gentle massage and pulling every day. Don't handle it roughly as you are likely to injure the blood vessels and perhaps permanently reduce that most prominent feature. Begin at the upper part of the nose and gradually work downward, gently pinching it until you reach the tip. The nose is as pliable as rubber. Make it in the proper shape and patience and perseverance should bring results. If you pinch the nose into the desired shape the nostrils should take the proper form. Redness of the nose is due often to bad circulation of the blood. This may be caused by too tight corsets, but I do not think women are very prone to err in this way any more. Imperfect digestion of the food may cause the redness. Hortense is giving you a lotion that is a temporary relief and suggests bettering the circulation by systematic exercise of the whole body and by gentle massaging of the nose. Use huckle one day and rose water four days. Mix and apply as often as necessary.

Hortense has given me some good recipes for the toilet which I am sure you will find of much use. Face powder: Farina starch, 50 grains, powdered talcum, 20 grains, powdered lycopodium, 20 grains, boracic acid, 10 grains, oil of violets, 10 drops. Mix all the powders thoroughly, then add the oil, cover tightly and let

Mr. Morse Says Swain's Report on Bridge Plans Has Arrived, City Engineer Says "No"

It was stated at city hall this morning that Prof. George F. Swain's report concerning the plans of the proposed Pawtucket bridge has been received and that the plans are "all right," which was taken to mean that they had been approved.

City Engineer Kearney, who is alleged to have received Prof. Swain's report when seen by a Sun reporter this morning, denied any knowledge of the report. Commissioner Morse informed the newspaper men that the report was received Thursday by Engineer Kearney, and although he (Mr. Morse), did not see the report, he understood, he said, that it was all right. The mayor was asked to find out if the said report had been received and his reply was that he was too busy to look into the matter.

Prof. George F. Swain is the expert who was hired by the city to examine the plans of the proposed bridge, which were drawn by Walter R. Fenneman of the Luten Engineering company of Worcester, with instructions to report at his earliest convenience to the city engineer. Although it was positively stated that the expert reached him on Thursday, Engineer Kearney denied all knowledge of it.

Attended Conference
City Solicitor J. Hennessy and his assistant, Capt. McDonald went to East Cambridge this morning to confer with the county commissioners in reference to the proposed changes to the Chelmsford street bridge. These changes have been ordered by the public service commission, and it is understood that the cost is to be defrayed by the county commission, the city of Lowell and the Boston & Maine railroad.

Hundred Extension
The new boulevard from Methuen to Glen Forest will be opened for traffic August 10. An effort will be made to complete the section in front of the armory of Battery C in Methuen this year, and it is expected that in case anything is done at the Lowell end of the highway from Read street following the river bank to the city, the first street will be widened from Bridge to Read streets, and it is also expected the Bay State Street railway company will put in double tracks.

Tanner Street Sewer
The employees of the sewer department are still at work on the rebuilding of the Tanner street sewer which caved in some time ago under the weight of a railroad trestle. Metallic rods one inch and a half in thickness by 7 feet in length have been installed and six courses of brick were laid in cement for an arch. The men have dug down seven feet and it will be some time before the job is finished.

Will Remove Trees
High street will soon be tar macadamized and before the work is started two large elm trees in front of the residence of Peter H. Donohoe will have to be removed and the park department has been asked to get busy on the job, but the superintendent, who has not yet acknowledged this work is included in his department, claims he has not got the necessary cash for the removal of trees.

According to Commissioner Morse there are four more elm trees which have to be felled, two in Chapel street between Linden and Chapel and two between Central and Chapel, and the commissioner insists upon the park department removing those trees before the paving of Chapel street is begun.

More Candidates
John F. Roane, Jr., 55 Chapel street, democrat, has taken out nomination papers for representative in the 16th district, while William L. Crowley, 23 Sarah avenue, democrat, has taken out similar papers for the 17th district.

School Certificates
The office of the attendance officers at city hall is daily the scene of large gatherings of young men and young women, who are desirous of going to work during vacation time and who want their school certificates. William F. Thornton, who is in charge of the office, stated this morning the officers are issuing certificates to boys and girls ranging in age from 14 to 21, on an average of 35 each day. Business is rushing.

Sleeping Porch
Dr. J. P. McAdams has taken out a permit for general repairs at his house, 421 High street. A roof will be constructed over the porch so as to make it a sleeping porch and the bath and dining rooms will be extended, the cost of the alterations will be between $500 and $700.

Continued

The steamer had been chartered for the day by the Western Electric Co. employees, who had planned an excursion to Michigan City, Ind.

Passengers were crowded on the ship shortly before 8 o'clock, the hour it was to leave, when the boat slowly listed toward the middle of the river.

2500 On Steamer
It is said that there were 2500 people on the steamer.

When the boat started to tip the officers shouted warnings but it was too late. The heavily loaded steamer continued to roll until the hawsers which held it to the dock snapped. A moment later, amid the screams of passengers, the steamer turned over on its side and floated into the middle of the river. Apparently scores of women and children in the cabin were drowned without being given a chance to escape.

Scores Picked Up By Boats
Hundreds of other passengers were able to climb on the side of the boat which was above water and were later taken up by rescuers. Life preservers were cast into the river from the steamer Theodore Roosevelt, which was docked across the river and scores of the Eastland's passengers clung to them until picked up by boats.

Bodies of Six Victims
City fire boats, police launches and life boats from nearby steamers in the river rushed to the rescue. A hole was cut through the side of the lower deck by life savers and the bodies of six victims, five of whom were women, were soon taken out.

J. D. Gaudry, employed on the steamer, was the first eye witness to tell a detailed story of the accident.

Story of Eye Witness
"It was about 7:40 o'clock and the boat was lying at the dock near Clark street bridge loading with passengers," said Gaudry. "We were to leave in twenty minutes and the upper deck and cabins were crowded with passengers. There were hundreds of women and children. I estimate that there were between two and three thousand on the boat at the time of the accident. It started to roll at the lower deck near the gangplank watching the people come aboard. Suddenly I noticed the boat list toward the center of the river. It rolled slightly at first and then seemed to stop. Then it started to roll again. I became alarmed and shouted to the crowd to keep still. Apparently a majority of the passengers were on one side of the boat and this had overweighted it and caused it to list. Suddenly the hawsers which held the boat to the dock snapped and the officers pulled the gangplank in and refused to allow any more on the boat.

Everybody Panic Stricken
"At this time everybody was panic stricken. I attempted to reach an upper deck but could not because of the crowd and excitement and ran back to the port side where the gangway had been. The boat then slowly drifted away from the dock, rolling as it slipped into mid-stream, and a moment later it had turned over on its side. I climbed over on the side of the boat and stayed there until I was taken off by life savers. Many of the passengers escaped into the water as the boat went over. Scores of others were caught in the cabins and drowned."

"When the small boats began coming out to us I worked with other survivors in taking passengers out of the water and cutting holes in the cabins to remove bodies."

Mother and Three Children Lost
Mrs. Paulina Vantak, the mother of three children, was among the drowned. Her children were believed to have been lost. Henry Vantak, the woman's husband, was pulled out of the water.

"I could not believe the boat was turned over," Vantak said. "About a dozen of the 150 persons on the upper decks jumped. The rest were thrown into the river. I did not see my wife or children after the boat turned. They were carried into the river with the crowd. Someone grabbed me around the neck and kept pulling me. It was a woman but I could not save her."

Policeman Saved Fifty
Policeman Harry H. Sesser, one of the first to go to the rescue, gave a vivid description of the accident.

"I saw scores of men and women, many of them holding children, plunge into the water. I jumped into a row-boat and pulled out to the drowning. I think I got about 50 ashore."

"The fire boats and tug hurried to the scene and picked up more than a hundred people."

7000 Tickets for Picnic
"We grabbed those nearest us first. At one time I had four women in the boat with me. Others I aided by dragging them from the water onto the docks."

The Eastland was filled to capacity and hundreds turned to other boats, according to S. G. Hall, one of the Western Electric picnicers. He estimated that seven thousand tickets had been distributed to the employees and that more than 2500 were crowded on the Eastland.

"I went to the deck," said Mr. Hall, "and was told to go to the other boats as the Eastland was already too crowded. There were 15 or 20 people behind me and more coming fast."

"I was told that ten tickets had been distributed among the company's employees and that there were to be six boat loads. The only boats that I heard were to be used, however, were the Eastland and the Theodore Roosevelt."

"I had scarcely gone ten feet toward the Roosevelt when the Eastland began to list. Hundreds ran to the rail and many climbed over its

TEXT OF AMERICAN REPLY TO LAST GERMAN NOTE

The Secretary of State to Ambassador Gerard.

Department of State, Washington, July 21, 1915.

You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the minister of foreign affairs:

"The note of the imperial German government dated the 5th of July, 1915, has received the careful consideration of the government of the United States, and it regrets to be obliged to say that it has found it very unsatisfactory, because it fails to meet the real differences between the two governments and indicates a way in which the accepted principles of law and humanity may be applied in the grave matter in controversy, but proposes suspension of those principles which virtually set them aside."

"The government of the United States notes with satisfaction that the imperial German government recognizes without reservation the validity of the principles insisted on in the several communications which this government has addressed to the imperial German government with regard to its announcement of a war zone and the use of submarines against merchantmen on the high seas—the principle that the high seas are free, that the character and cargo of a merchantman must first be ascertained before she can lawfully be seized or destroyed, and that the lives of non-combatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel resists or seeks to escape after being summoned to submit to examination; for a belligerent act of retaliation is per se an act beyond the law, and the defence of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal."

"The government of the United States is, however, keenly disappointed to find that the imperial German government regards itself as in large degree exempt from the obligation to observe these principles, even where neutral vessels are concerned, by what it believes the policy and practice of the government of Great Britain to be in the present war with regard to neutral commerce."

"The imperial German government will readily understand that the government of the United States cannot discuss the policy of the government of Great Britain with regard to neutral trade except with that government itself, and that it must regard the conduct of other belligerent governments as irrelevant to any discussion with the imperial German government of what this government regards as grave and unjustifiable violation of the rights of American citizens by German naval commanders."

"Illegal and inhuman acts, however justifiable they may be thought to be against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights, particularly when they violate the right to life itself."

"If a belligerent cannot retaliate against an enemy without injuring the lives of neutrals, as well as their property, humanity as well as justice and a due regard for the dignity of neutral powers should dictate that the practice be discontinued. If persisted in, it would in such circumstances constitute an unpardonable offence against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected. The government of the United States is not unmindful of the extraordinary conditions created by this war or of the radical alterations by the use of instruments of attack produced by the use of instruments of naval warfare which the nations of the world cannot have had in view when the existing rules of international law were formulated, and it is ready to make every reasonable allowance for these novel and unexpected aspects of war at sea; but it cannot consent to abate any essential or fundamental right of its people because of a mere alteration of circumstances. The rights of neutrals in time of war are based upon principle, not upon expediency, and the principles are immutable. It is the duty and obligation of belligerents to find a way to adapt the new conditions to them."

"The events of the past two months have clearly indicated that it is possible and practicable to conduct such submarine operations as have characterized the activity of the imperial German navy within the so-called war zone in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare. The whole world has looked with interest and increasing satisfaction at the demonstration of that possibility by German naval commanders. It is manifestly possible, therefore, to lift the whole practice of submarine attack above the criticism which it has aroused, and remove the chief causes of offence."

"In view of the admission of illegality made by the imperial government when it pleaded the right of retaliation in defence of its acts, and in view of the manifest possibility of conforming to the established rules of naval warfare, the government of the United States cannot believe that the imperial government will longer refrain from disavowing the wanton act of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania or from offering reparation for the American lives lost, so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of human life by an illegal act."

"The government of the United States, while not indifferent to the friendly spirit in which it is made, cannot accept the suggestion of the imperial German government that certain vessels be designated and agreed upon which shall be free on the seas now illegally proscribed. The very agreement would by implication subject other vessels to illegal attack and would be a curtailment and therefore an abandonment of the principle for which this government contends, and which in times of calmer counsels every nation would concede as of course."

"The government of the United States and the imperial German government are contending for the same great object, have long stood together in urging the very principles upon which the government of the United States now so solemnly insists. They are both contending for the freedom of the seas."

"The government of the United States will continue to contend for that freedom, from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost. It invites the practical co-operation of the imperial German government at this time when co-operation may accomplish most and this great common object be most strikingly and effectively achieved."

"The imperial German government expresses the hope that this object may be in some measure accomplished even before the present war ends. It can be. The government of the United States not only feels obliged to insist upon it, by whosesoever violated or ignored, in the protection of its own citizens, but is also deeply interested in seeking it, he made practicable between the belligerents themselves and holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way."

"In the meantime the very value which the government sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and government of the United States and the people and government of the German nation impels it to press very solemnly upon the imperial German government the necessity for a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the imperial government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly."

SAD STORY TOLD IN COURT

Girl Who Slept in Woods in Wretched Condition When Found by the Police

Tired, hungry, dirty and bedraggled, a young woman who gave her name as Alice Courtine was arrested early this morning coming out of Indian orchard, where she is supposed to have slept all night exposed to the dampness and cold. She was taken to the police station charged with drunkenness and there she told a pitiful story of her adventures during the past few weeks.

The girl, who appeared to be about 22 years of age, told Judge Enright this forenoon that she has a home in Maine which she left a few weeks ago and made her way to Boston, where she stopped until last week. She attempted to evade answering questions relative to her stopping place in this city, but when pressed asserted that she had slept in a room which she could not now locate and had also spent an evening in a shed with nettles and no windows. How she had secured enough food she would not state but admitted that she had been drinking heavily during her stay in Lowell and didn't eat very much.

When arrested on First street, the woman had no shoes on and her stockings contained many holes and she wore a soiled skirt and an old red sweater over a white waist. Her honor advised the girl to spend a few days in the Lowell jail but she did not care to do this and so the case was continued until Tuesday. In the meantime an attempt will be made to find relatives of the defendant.

Broke His Agreement

Peculiar evidence was submitted in the case of Emile Lergant, charged with failing to properly support his wife. The husband works steadily and earns between $11 and $12 a week while the wife also is employed in a local mill for about $7 a week. It seems that Emile and his wife recently entered into an agreement whereby

each was to contribute a certain sum regularly toward the household expenses and put the rest in the bank. At the present time both have money in the bank in their own names. The defendant failed to abide by his agreement about two weeks ago, however, and his wife contributed his usual payments since. Judge Enright informed the man that it was necessary for him to support his wife and continued the case for two weeks for further developments. Daniel J. Donahue for the government and A. O. Hamel for the defendant.

Answait and Battery

Artides Bikanadas was adjudged guilty of assault and battery upon Ellen M. Binkpi and sentenced to two months in jail. He appealed and was set in $300 surety for the superior court. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the complainant.

Both parties are operatives in the Hest mill. It is claimed that Bikanadas has been in the habit of throwing hobnails at the complainant as he passed by on a machine on an elevator. She objected to this treatment and requested him to stop but when he persisted she went to the overseer and reported him. When Bikanadas learned that the girl had made a complaint about his conduct it is claimed he struck her four times, darkening both her lips.

Hyman Snyder was called to answer to a complaint charging him with keeping an unlicensed dog. Through his attorney, Bennett Silverblatt, he pleaded guilty and the case was placed on file on payment of costs.

The husband and three women were present for drunkenness and disposed of in short order. Prior to the opening of court, 10 first offenders for drunkenness were released.

ALL ABOARD FOR BEACH

Many Excursions From Lowell Today — Shops Deserted for the Seashore

Neither the European war, the big labor disputes all over the country or the still smouldering Mexican situation, had any depressing effect on the hundreds of Lowell people who gave up today for the pleasures of an outing, and those who had to stay at home and work envied the excursionists who left Merrimack square early this morning on the electric, enroute to the seashore or country. The day was balmy and the outings were well attended.

W. J. Barry Shoe Co.
Employees of the W. J. Barry Shoe Co., to the number of 350 boarded three jumbo electric cars at Merrimack square shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, enroute for Revere beach where their annual outing was held. On the way to the resort all the popular songs of the day were sung, and the merry-makers had a great time. Upon arriving at the beach a sumptuous shore dinner was served, after which the attractions along the beach were visited. During the afternoon bathing was enjoyed, and a long list of sports was run off for which valuable prizes were awarded the winners. President Griffin, Treasurer W. J. Barry and Supt. White accompanied the party. The return home will be made this evening.

Lawrence Holy Name Society
The members of the Tewksbury Holy Name society boarded a special car at Chandler street, Tewksbury, at 8 o'clock this morning and a run was made to Revere where the annual outing was held. The party was in charge of a committee headed by Edward Walsh of Wameet.

The members of the Baptist church Sunday school of Billerica held their annual outing today at Canobie lake. The trip was made in one car which left North Billerica at 12:40 p. m. There were over 100 members in the party.

L. H. Spaulding Shoe Co.

HEARING ON CHELMSFORD STREET BRIDGE PUT OVER UNTIL MONDAY NEXT

At a hearing of the county commissioners given this morning in the East Cambridge court house, a petition from the Boston & Maine railroad was read asking that the plans for the city of Lowell relative to the construction of the new Chelmsford street bridge be dismissed. No action was taken on the petition and the hearing was postponed until Monday.

Present at the hearing besides the three county commissioners were Secretary John H. Murphy of the board of trade, City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy and Mr. Ives, representing the Bay State Street railway. The Boston & Maine railroad was not represented and for this reason the commission did not care to go ahead with the hearing.

Secretary Murphy was present in an effort to have a more convenient stairway installed in place of the one now in use. The board of trade contends that stairs could be built over the express company offices and therefore eliminate the long climb necessary to reach Chelmsford street at present. It has also been suggested that an escalator be installed.

ANOTHER BREAK
Atlantic and Pacific Tea Store Broken Into Last Evening

The Atlantic & Pacific tea store at 135 Merrimack street was broken into late last night or early this morning and $10 in silver and many articles of merchandise were taken. The thief made his getaway by the back window leading into Pollard's alley from the cashier's office. Entrance to the store was made by the same window. The break was discovered by the manager of the store, Clement Baird, at 7 o'clock this morning shortly after he had opened the store for business.

Over $200, which was secreted in the till where the silver was deposited was not discovered by the thief and remained untouched, though the thief didn't overlook five pennies, which lay on a tray on the cashier's desk.

Baird immediately communicated with the police, and Sgt. Giroux was sent to investigate. The police believe the break was the work of juveniles.

This is the fourth break reported on Merrimack street during the past few weeks. In June the Boston Confectionery store was entered and a sum of money taken. Last week's break was made at the Bing Piano store and Wood's Jewelry store.
